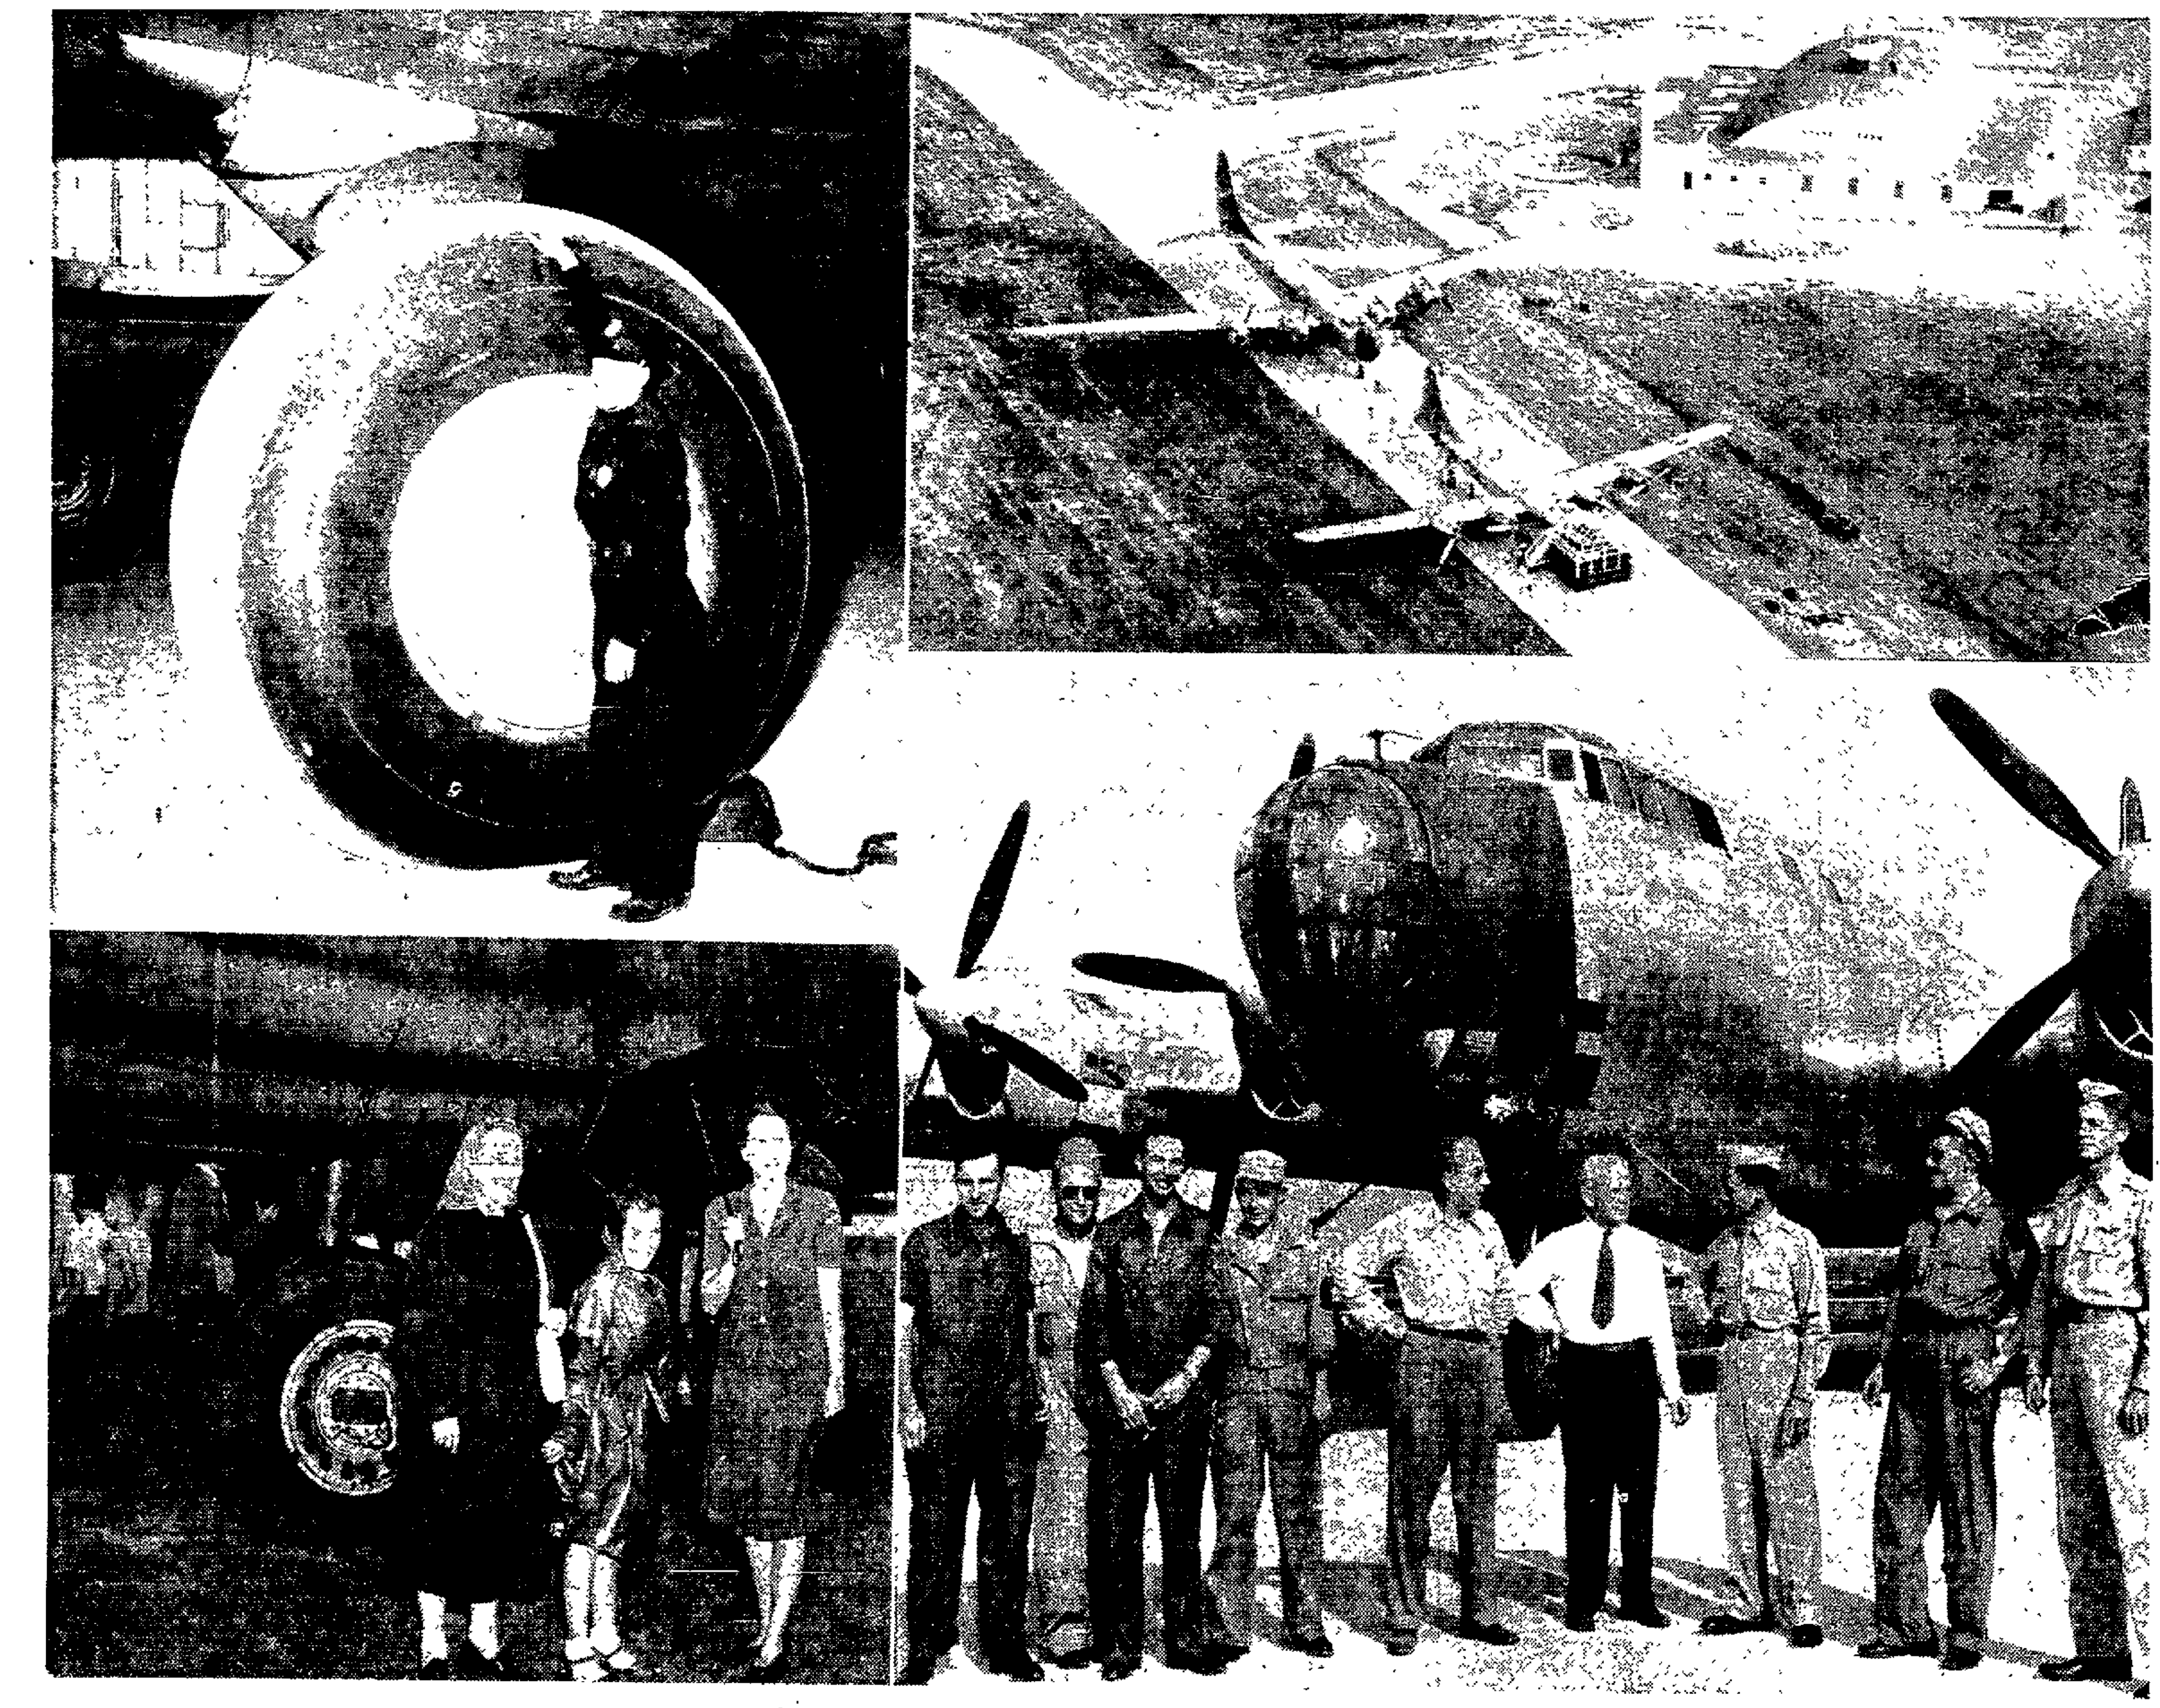
CROWDS BEGIN SURGE TO PORT AS SKY GIVES HINT OF CLEARING

Biggest Day! - Biggest Plane! - and to Heck With the Rain



Today, Mansfield officially "received" its brand new, $2,000,000 airport. Crowds braved early showers to see the great ground displays. Top left: That's one of the rubber-tired wheels on the gigantic B-19 that Mansfield Patrolman Leland Sorgen is standing beside. The ship, which is the largest in the world, was flown down from Wright field yesterday for exhibit at the field. Sorgen, who is a recent addition to the Mansfield police force, resides at 192 Gerke avenue. Top right: This aerial view of one of the taxi strips of the port, shows the comparison between the giant B-19 in the rear, and the B-29 Superfortress in the foreground. Bottom left: Prepared for whatever the weather might bring, these three Mansfield women were at the airport bright and early this morning for the ceremonies. Left to right they are: Mrs. Hice Ramsey and daughter, Vivian, 314 Hedges street, and Mrs. Olive Owen, 503 Cline avenue, Brinkerhoff school teacher. Bottom right: Lt. Col. R. G. Ruegg, third from right, receives congratulations on his landing of the B-19 from Col. Alan P. Tappan, vice chairman of the airport dedication committee, and J. Gilbert Baird, chairman of the dedication committee. Left to right are: S/Sgt. John S. Gaul, assistant crew chief; S/Sgt. Cecil R. Meadows, assistant engineer; S/Sgt. John Haag, engineer; M/Sgt. Darwin E. Dick, crew chief, Baird, Col. Tappan, Col. Ruegg, Lt. Paavo A. Koistinen, second co-pilot and Maj. David L. Rogan, co-pilot. The B-19 is part of Air Materiel Command's All Weather Flying division at Wilmington, O., and members of the crew that brought it to Mansfield are assigned to Wright field, Ohio. This photo was made by the Air Materiel Command of Wright field. All other pictures shown here were taken by the News-Journal.

Dedication At 2 P. M. Rain Or Shine, Assured

Great Air Spectacle Hinges on Weather But Forecasters See Satisfactory Flying Ceiling With Showers; Sunday to Be Fair.

By JOHN MINE

All eyes were on the skies today as Mansfield was just hours away from dedicating its new, $2,000,000 airport. But observers weren't watching for airplanes.

With crossed fingers, dedication planners heard weather reports from Wright field and Hayesville which predicted that "by show time" the skies may be clear.

Nevertheless, thousands of "weather resistant" spectators were on hand this morning to help officially start the two-day dedication program. They were the vanguard of many more thousands expected to attend this afternoon and tomorrow.

Hayesville weather observers said late this morning that there will be "scattered thundershowers this afternoon and this evening." They added, however, that they could not predict whether or not the showers would hit the airport area.

The crowd at noon was estimated at 3,500. Nearly 50,000 are expected before the day is over.

Rain or shine, however, the formal dedication ceremonies are to take place at 2 p. m. at an open air speaker's platform just north of the hangars.

Upon just how clear the skies are shortly thereafter will depend whether the scores of army, navy and marine planes take to the air for hour-long aerial maneuvers.

If the cloud "ceiling" reaches 2,500 to 3,000 feet or more, dedication officials said that the sky show will go on. Hayesville weathermen said that, in general, the lower cloud ceiling would be at 2,500 feet in the Mansfield area this afternoon.

Fair Tomorrow!

Fair weather is promised for tomorrow—second day of Mansfield's airport dedication program. Said the weatherman: "Sunday fair and somewhat cooler."

Notables Thronging City For Air Event

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Mansfield played host today to the largest gathering of notables from the military and naval forces, aeronautics, government and literary fields ever to arrive in the city for a single event.

This event was the dedication ceremonies and spectacular sky show at the city's $2,000,000 municipal airport.

Only "hitch" in the arrivals was a wire from J. Harry McGregor, 17th district congressman, who notified Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and other dedication officials that he had been detained in Washington pending Congressional reconsideration of a bill to revive the OPA.

Heading the list in the political field is Governor Frank J. Lausche who will give the opening address at the dedication ceremonies scheduled for 2 p. m. Mrs. Lausche is with the governor.

Gen. Lahm On Hand.

Mansfield native Brig. Gen. Frank P. Lahm, veteran of two wars and one of the three surviving Wright-trained army fliers, will also attend. Gen. Lahm, a West Point graduate, learned to fly as an army cadet under Wilbur and Orville Wright. Now retired, the general makes Mansfield his home during the summer months.

Other military and naval officers to appear at the ceremony are:

Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Hanley, jr., Mansfielder by adoption, and former commander of the Air Service Command in the CBI theater. He is now commanding general of the 11th Air Force, stationed in Reading, Pa.

Capt. J. G. Foster, jr., commanding officer of the Port Columbus naval air station, and commander of all navy and marine personnel participating in the sky show.

Brig. Gen. Frank Schilt, of the naval air station, Glenview, Ill.

Lane W. Wilcox, superintendent of the airports division, Chicago Regional Civil Aeronautics Authority office.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and J. R. Harrington, airport manager.

James M. Landis, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, Lt.

Weatherman Chief Topic At Airport

By ARTHUR ANDERSON

A few of the more intrepid of the thousands of visitors expected to witness the opening day ceremonies of the dedication of Mansfield's $2,000,000 airport began arriving early this morning in spite of the rain and low murky skies.

Even as the crowd milled around to inspect the army, navy and commercial planes already lined out on the field, other planes were circling to land in "soup" so thick that they were barely visible as they swung around to put down on the new runways.

And it was these same runways which made it possible for the huge land planes to participate in the promised gala dedication airshow. They put Mansfield into a small select circle of cities that are now able to accommodate the largest of the commercial and military landplanes.

The weather picture already dark during the early hours of the morning when a light rain was falling on the port became worse when the threatened downpour struck shortly before 10 a. m.

Bare, unsodded ground already sticky now became a muddy morass.

Fortunately most of the exhibit planes are so located that the crowd will not need to wade through mud to view them.

Located along the southeast taxistrip and along the western

LINK THIRD MAN TO OSR KILLING

Prosecutor Says Another Inmate Admits Part In Fray.

Charges in the knife killing of Janvere Bruck, 18-year-old reformatory inmate Thursday night, will be delayed until early next week pending further investigation which today implicates a third prisoner, County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz reported today.

Original reports of the stabbing fray in a supper line-up indicated that Howard Nichols, 20, of Hardin county, was a lone assailant of Bruck but Lutz today said his probe showed that Louis Murton, 19-year-old Cleveland youth, participated in the fight.

"Both Nichols and Murton admit striking blows with knives. Nichols claims Bruck stole some jewelry from him and Murton joined him in the attack on Bruck," Lutz said.

The prosecutor reported he will not file charges immediately because he wants to interview other whitnesses to the altercation.

Meanwhile, Nichols was lodged in the county jail and Murton placed in solitary confinement at the reformatory.

Bruck, whose body was taken to Cleveland for burial today, died in the reformatory hospital at 8 p. m. Thursday, about three hours after he was stabbed. His body was

Claim 'Crown' Resting Heavy on Franco Brow

MADRID—(INS)—Rumors that Generalissimo Francisco Franco possibly may relinquish his premiership and simultaneously announce a drastic cabinet shakeup circulated freely today in the Spanish capital itself.

(For the past week, dispatches from London and Paris have been saying that Generalissimo Francisco Franco is about to step down as the Spanish dictator, and hinted at internal troubles. This dispatch comes direct from Madrid and obviously was approved by Spanish censorship before it was transmitted.)

Well-informed sources said the Fascist leader has been giving much thought to the reorganization of the governmental set-up, with changes in a number of key posts including the treasury, interior, labor, industry and commerce departments anticipated.

Franco has been discharging four-fold duties as the chief of state, generalissimo of all the Spanish armed forces, national chief of the Falange and premier.

In view of the delicate international situation, Franco now is reported to be considering the naming of some outstanding figure to take over the premiership, although he has given no indication as to whom he might regard qualified to hold this important post.

HERE'S BEST WAY TO GET TO THE AIRPORT

Here's a resume of how you can best get to the new airport—and back—whether you're traveling by car or bus.

If you're going by auto, use North Main street only. It'll be a one-way "Airport Express" highway through 4 p. m. today and from 11 a. m. through 4 p. m. Sunday.

If you're taking a bus you'll find special ones lined up from Central park to West Fourth street on North Main today and tomorrow. Fare? Ten cents.

Once at the port, follow police directions closely. A detailed parking system has been mapped to save you—and the police—unnecessary headaches. For the return trip, again heed the police—their instructions will get you back into town with the least delay.

OPA STRUGGLE NEARING PEAK

Another House Floor Fight Due If Committee Fails to Agree Today.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The OPA entered the life-or-death stage on Capitol Hill today.

With congress deadlocked it became certain the nation will start out on a fourth week of uncontrolled prices and with no one knowing in what form, if any, OPA might be revived.

The house-senate conference committee seeking a compromise stalemated as house members refused steadfastly to accept senate bans against any further price ceilings on milk, meat, eggs and other basic foods.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky called the conferees to one more meeting today.

If this fails the OPA will be thrown open again in a house floor battle over whether to approve the senate bill. President Truman, indicating a veto, has described the senate measure as "terrible."

Meanwhile, congress — just in case OPA is restored—voted to cut $31,000,000 from OPA operating funds and to ban use of any of the money for "propaganda in support of price control." The agency appropriation was put at $75,000,000 instead of $106,000,000.

The World is closer to Mansfield today because of the far seeing, energetic actions of civic minded men Today New York Los Angeles and far distant points are out a matter of a few hours from our homes

Passenger travel and merchandise transportation have been facilitated Individual citizens, business and professional institutions, industrialists all have been aided materially by the progressive move of the acquisition of our new Municipal Airport.

ROY W. VAUGHN
Mayor

And this did not come about in a few moments of time. It has taken constructive thinking and planning, and the expenditure of a vast amount of mental and physical energy to consummate it

You and I, who perhaps took no active part in this huge project, can little realize the multitudinous duties imposed upon a few of our public spirited leaders who carried the brunt of this To these, and all who aided we express our sincere thanks and appreciation.

Cities, like people, change as years pass over them. Cities, however, grow stronger and more substantial the older they become.

The Mansfield Chamber of Commerce has played a most important role in the growth and development of the city during the past.

The New Municipal Airport is no exception. For many years the Chamber of Commerce worked hard, long and diligently in order that Mansfield might enjoy this new type of transportation.

It is therefore appropriate that we take this opportunity to thank the 973 members of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce for their loyal support and for their most valuable contribution toward securing for Mansfield one of the Nation's really great Airports.

As time comes and goes Mansfield will make additional strides forward. As in the past, it will be a strong and loyal Chamber of Commerce, made up of leading Business, Industrial and Professional Men and Women playing a most important part in the thinking, planning and executing of the finer things to come.

BECOME TARGET

Japs Organize to Keep Vandals Out of Gardens.

TOKYO —(INS)— Japanese citizens throughout the country are organizing "victory garden watchers" to save the produce of their tiny gardens just as during wartime they organized "air raid watchers" to arouse the people when the B-29s were coming.

The little gardens Japanese planted to help them bolster their meager, near starvation ration have become the target of organized bands of hungry people.

In Tokyo the Metropolitan police reported more than 4,000 vegetable garden robberies. The police said most of the robbers are children egged on by parents who sometimes threaten "no food robberies, no meals."

The parents themselves realize the children will get off with lighter penalties than they would if caught, the police said.

In Setagaya-ku, on Tokyo's southwest edge, "every town assembly has organized its own self-protection corps," the police reported, and a three or four man guard detail is on duty every night.

Not all the thefts are committed by the hungry. One elderly man was caught stealing peas to sell at his black market stall.

Burial Vaults of Distinction

Regardless of its Beauty

NO VAULT IS BETTER THAN ITS MATERIAL AND WORKMANSHIP

Bronze Finish

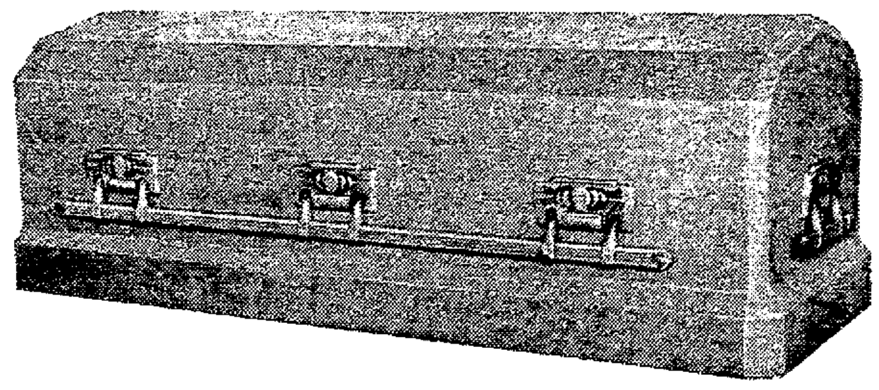
Gold Finish



Silver Finish

Copper Finish

BEAUTY and dignified simplicity are features of Mansfield Metal Vaults; but of even greater importance, are those hidden values of quality materials, and superior workmanship.

The VALHALLA and VIKING Vaults, by Mansfield, are scientifically designed, to give lasting, absolute, and perfect protection. Each vault is die cut and formed, then double-welded on the inside for volume of material. It is again welded on the outside to flow the metal together—thereby making one continuous piece of metal. Because of its superior design, the Mansfield Metal Vault not only makes a more attractive appearance but takes full advantage of the air-seal principle. Its symmetrical lines, reducing the space in which the air is compressed, results in a lower water level at the base. Every unit is tested before leaving the factory, and is guaranteed to be both air-tight and water-proof.

Only the very highest grade materials and the highest type of workmanship are embodied in Mansfield Metal Vaults. Each unit is finished with a special acid resisting preparation that permits use in any type of soil. Materials used in finishing are the most permanent known to science today—they will not chip, flake or peel—and add many years of service to that of the inherent life of the metal of which the vault is made.

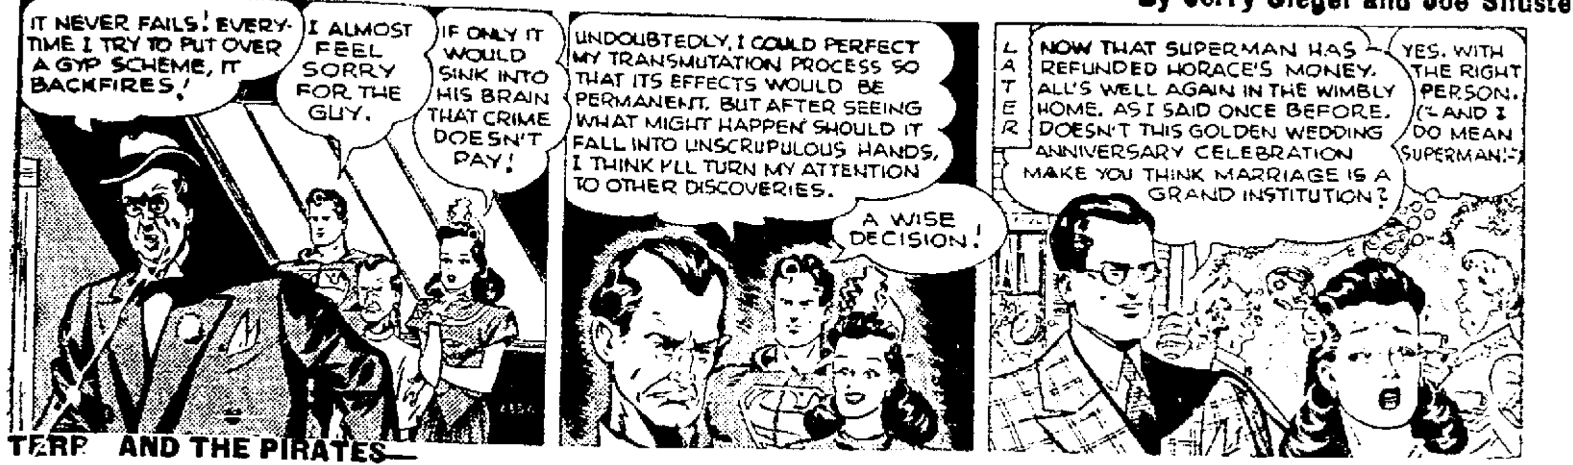
SUPERMAN—

By Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster



IT NEVER FAILS! EVERY-TIME I TRY TO PUT OVER A GYP SCHEME, IT BACKFIRES!
I ALMOST FEEL SORRY FOR THE GUY.
IF ONLY IT WOULD SINK INTO HIS BRAIN THAT CRIME DOESN'T PAY!
UNDOUBTEDLY, I COULD PERFECT MY TRANSMUTATION PROCESS SO THAT ITS EFFECTS WOULD BE PERMANENT. BUT AFTER SEEING WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN SHOULD IT FALL INTO UNSCRUPULOUS HANDS, I THINK I'LL TURN MY ATTENTION TO OTHER DISCOVERIES.
A WISE DECISION!
LATER
NOW THAT SUPERMAN HAS REFUNDED HORACE'S MONEY, ALL'S WELL AGAIN IN THE WIMBLY HOME. AS I SAID ONCE BEFORE, DOESN'T THIS GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION MAKE YOU THINK MARRIAGE IS A GRAND INSTITUTION?
YES, WITH THE RIGHT PERSON. (-AND I DO MEAN SUPERMAN!-)

COURT HEARS 3 TRAFFIC CASES

One Driver Gets Jail Sentence, Two Fined for Driving While Intoxicated.

Three Mansfielders were arraigned in municipal court this morning on traffic charges.

Kenneth E. Frost, 293 East First street, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail on a charge of failure to have an operator's license. He was also found guilty of unsafe operation and was fined $25 and costs. His right to drive was suspended for 60 days.

Found guilty of operating a car while under the influence of alcohol were Albert R. Bell, 161 Chilton avenue, and Thomas B. Jacobs, 28 Clairmont avenue. Bell was fined $50 and costs and his operator's license was suspended for six months.

Jacobs, who was arrested last night after his car had collided with a car parked at Central and Orange streets, was fined $75 and costs and his license was suspended for six months. He was also found guilty of disorderly conduct on which a fine of $10 and costs was suspended. Jacobs collided with a car owned by John C. Lotz, 81 Waring avenue.

CARS STOLEN

Two Autos, One Truck Taken In City During Night.

Two automobiles and one truck were reported stolen in Mansfield last night.

William Light, 263 Harker street, told police his car was stolen from in front of his home. A car belonging to Robert E. McCulloch, 195 Buckingham street, was reported stolen sometime after midnight from West Fourth street, near Walnut street.

Russell Allen, Bellville, reported that his truck which had been parked on North Main street near Fifth, was taken early last night.

Miss Selfe Resigns as Director Of Nurses at General Hospital

Will Leave Aug. 5 To Care for Her Mother

Miss Mabel Selfe, director of nurses at Mansfield General hospital for the past 10 years, will leave the hospital next month because of pressing home responsibilities.

Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent of the hospital, announced today that the hospital board has accepted her resignation with regret "because she has been such a very efficient worker."

Succeeding Miss Selfe as director of nurses will be Miss Dorothy Bird of Cleveland who is currently completing work toward a B. A. degree at Western Reserve university.

Although Miss Selfe's resignation does not officially take effect until Sept. 1, she will leave the hospital Aug. 5 for her home near Norwalk to care for her aged mother who is in ill health.

A farewell party is being planned by hospital personnel for Miss Selfe, who has seen General hospital expand from an institution of less than 100 beds to one of over 200 beds and the latest in hospital equipment.

Miss Dorothy Bird, who will become the new superintendent, is expected to arrive in Mansfield August 15.

She was formerly supervisor and instructor of nurses for five years at Sparrow hospital in Lansing, Mich., and was supeintendent of nurses at St. Luke's hospital in Saginaw, Mich., for five years before attending Western Reserve university in Cleveland.

Mabel Selfe . . . Director of Nurses.

CROWDS SURGE TO AIRPORT AS SKIES CLEAR

Dedication Promised At 2—Rain Or Shine—Hope for Ceiling 3,000.

navy and marine fighters are to roar in over the field for their part in the sky show.

They'll be followed by stunt fliers "Woody" Edmondson and Beverly Howard. At about 4:20 p. m. the army air force is to perform. Then comes Stunt Flier Mike Murphy and the pageant of 1946 personal aircraft.

Early today scores of spectators carrying umbrellas or bundled in raincoats arrived at the field to be some of the first to see the ground displays of military and commercial planes.

All morning, North Main street, dubbed "Airport Express" highway, had a steady stream of traffic flowing over it toward the new, 1,200-acre port, and traffic began to mount shortly after noon.

Latest to be added to the ground exhibit were the army air forces three "biggies"—the B-17, the B-29 and B-19.

Biggest of the big is the red-tailed B-19. It weighs 82 tons, has a wing spread of 212 feet and a gasoline capacity of 11,000 gallons. It's used primarily as a flying laboratory and has never flown in combat.

The army's largest combat bomber, the B-29 is parked on a taxi strip between the '17 and '19. A platform has been erected around the 65 ton, Tokyo-busting plane so that spectators can see where the pilot, co-pilot and bombardier "ride."

South of the hangars on another taxi strip are five black navy planes. The largest is a medium patrol bomber, and the others are a torpedo bomber, a dive bomber and two fighters. Platforms have been erected around the fighters so that spectators can look into the planes' cockpits.

Northwest of the hangars are five silver-sleek P-51 Mustang army fighters and two A-26 Invaders. These are to participate in the airshow along with three B-29's.

For inspection in the display area are another Invader bomber and another Mustang fighter. Displayed along with the five fighters and two bombers is an army C-46, troop carrying plane.

Still to arrive for the army's ground plane display are two of its latest fighters, the jet-propelled Shooting Star and the P-82, a twin-engined Mustang.

Also to be displayed by the army are the P-38 Lightning, the P-47 Thunderbolt, the P-61 Black Widow, a night fighter, a B-25 medium bomber and the C-82, Packet. a cargo ship.

Planes displayed on the ground by the navy and marines, include the Hellcat and Corsair fighters, the Avenger torpedo bomber, the Helldiver dive bomber and the Harpoon, a medium patrol bomber.

Col. R. G. Ruegg, assistant chief of operations, flight test division of Wright Field and pilot of the B-19 "Flying Laboratory." Woody Edmondson, Beverly Howard and "Mike" Murphy, stunt flyer complete the list.

Master of ceremonies for the complete show and chairman of the dedication committee is J. Gilbert Baird, veteran publicity specialist, and sales promotion manager of the appliance division of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant.

Ted Malone, noted editor and critic of literature, and war correspondent, will leave at 2:45 today with the first commercial flight from the new field. The cargo plane in which Malone will fly will carry a complete kitchen manufactured by the Westinghouse Electric corporation to the west coast for feature in Universal Pictures.

Two high-ranking Sears-Roebuck company officials were to arrive by special company plane today to witness the airport dedication. Flying from Chicago in the company's DC-3 cargo-type plane were to be E. J. Condon, assistant to the firm's president, and Paul W. Brown, general traffic manager. They will be guests of Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield. Bromfield and Arch R. Jones, manager of the company's local store, were to meet the officials and their wives at the port this morning.

H. A. Barth Dies Friday At Bucyrus

BUCYRUS—H. A. "Gust" Barth, 83, retired city clerk and lifelong resident of this city, died in City hospital Friday afternoon. He had been ill since a heart attack June 8.

Mr. Barth held many city offices, including councilman, treasurer, auditor and was employed in the county auditor's office, the district assessor's office, the county recorder's office, and county commissioner's office. He was city clerk for 17 years.

He is survived by two daughters of his first marriage to Amanda E. Orthwein in 1886, Mrs. C. E. Gebhardt, Bucyrus and Mrs. Forrest McNutt, Upper Sandusky, and one sister, Mrs. Pauline Zucker, Toledo. Mr. Barth's first wife and his second, Anna Della Beard, whom he married in 1916, and four brothers and one sister preceded him in death. Two grandsons also survive.

Rev. C. A. Lieder, supply pastor of Good Hope Lutheran church, will conduct funeral services at the Munz funeral home Monday at 3 p. m. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

MRS. C. A. GRIMM

SHELBY—Mrs. Carl A. Grimm, wife of a former Evangelical and Reformed minister here, died in North Carolina Thursday, friends learned today.

Rev. and Mrs. Grimm, and son, Tommy, moved to North Carolina from Wisconsin two months ago. He is a former Army chaplain.

Burial will be Sunday in Appleton, Wis.

HAROLD S. LEEDY

FREDERICKTOWN — Chief Warrant Officer Harold Stanley Leedy, 39, son of Alva Leedy, 131 Salem avenue, died Friday in Oliver General hospital, Augusta, Ga., following an operation. He had been in the army 20 years.

He is survived by the widow, Frances, a son, Harold Stanley jr., two sisters, Mrs. Harold Clark, Columbus, Mrs. Fred Human, Mansfield and two brothers, Donley, Mansfield and Issac, stationed in New Mexico.

Burial will be in Montgomery, Ala., Monday.

H. P. GOLZ

SHELBY—Herman Paul Golz, 63, father of Herbert C. Golz, 116 East Main street, died Friday evening at the Carmean Rest home, Willard. He had been ill for many years and had been at the home of his son for the past year and a half.

A brother and sister living in Aurora, Ill., where Mr. Golz was proprietor of a clothing store, also survive.

The body will be taken to Aurora by the Barkdull funeral home for services Monday.

F. H. BISHOP

WILLARD — Funeral services for Floyd H. Bishop, 63, Euclid avenue, who died Wednesday in the Norwalk hospital of a heart ailment, will be conducted by Rev. N. J. Traunero in the St. Sebastian church, Bismark, on Monday at 9 a. m. Burial will be in the Bismark cemetery.

J. E. FISHER

WILLARD—Funeral services for J. E. Fisher, 65, former Baltimore and Ohio road engine foreman here, who died Friday in the Bluffton hospital, will be conducted Sunday at 1 p. m. in Garrett, Ind., his home before his death. The widow, the former Mrs. Gertrude Thomas, survives.

LEADS WHEAT GROWERS

claimed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bruck, from the Jones Memorial. He was born in Cleveland July 7, 1928.

Lutz said both knives allegedly used by Nichols and Murton have been recovered and appear to be dinner knives that had been sharpened to a fine edge.

All three of the inmates had been former inmates of the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster. Bruck was received as a transfer from BIS Oct. 24, 1945; Nichols was transferred Dec. 17, 1942; and Murton, received at the reformatory from Cuyahoga county, March 14, 1944, was not a transfer from BIS but had formerly been imprisoned there.

Bruck was serving for assault to rob, Nichols had been convicted of theft, and Murton was sentenced for breaking and entering. All were classified as juvenile delinquents.

side of the old airport where the sod is heavy the crowd will have an opportunity to inspect them closely and still avoid the mud.

Weatherman Unpopular.

This morning before the clouds began rising Mansfields airport was no place for a weatherman.

Many were the vitriolic remarks that were heard around the field as last minute preparations were being worked out.

Most of them started by reviewing the beautiful airshow weather which the city had experienced during the rest of this week and ended with bitter remarks at the rotten deal handed down today.

One official punned that the weatherman must get time and a half on days like this.

"Just like merry England," William R. Allen, World War II R. C. A. F. and AAF pilot and now director of the veteran Information Center here, remarked as he dashed into the press headquarters to escape the heavy rain which struck at 10 a. m. By noon the rain had ceased.

Committee members were on hand going ahead with their assigned tasks for the show.

The flow of motor traffic was reported increasing at noon, but careful preparations beforehand were keeping it moving smoothly although it was made more difficult by the usual Saturday shoppers in the city.

SHOT FATAL

Find Painter Dead of Gun Wound In Nankin Home.

ASHLAND — Edward John Laughery, 69, lifelong resident and painter of Nankin, was found shot to death in an upstairs room of his home Friday evening. Coroner Dr. A. D. Lewis could not be reached for a verdict on the death. Mr. Laughery had been ill for a year.

He is survived by the widow, Nettie, a daughter, Mrs. Blain Peffer, a son, Paul, all of Nankin, two sisters, Mrs. Charles Metzgar, Mrs. Mary McConnell, all of near Ashland; three brothers, Henry, of Wellington, and Jesse and Ephriam, both of near Ashland. Three grandchildren also survive.

Rev. J. H. Steed, a retired Methodist minister of Ashland, will conduct funeral services at the Hyle funeral home, Ashland, Monday, 2:30 p. m.

Charge He Turned In False Alarm

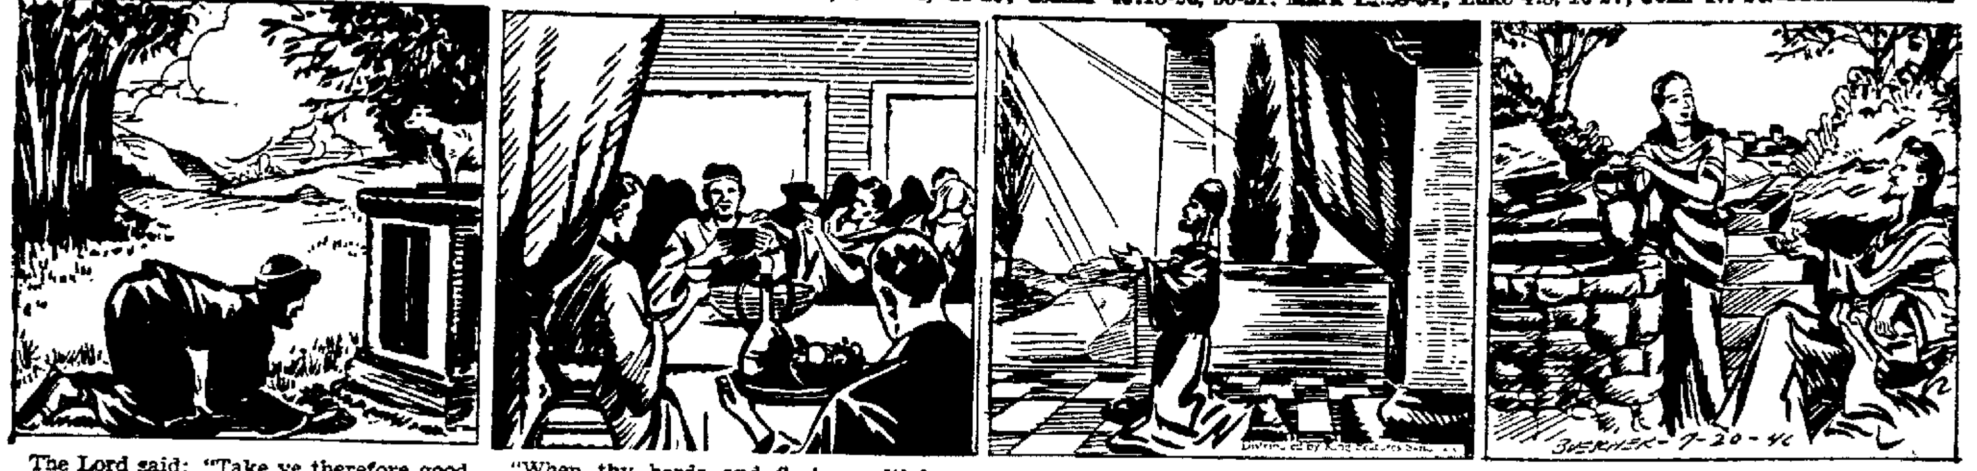
Tony Scully, 414 Fifth avenue, was arrested last night on charges of turning in a false alarm at the corner of Wayne and Orange street last night. Scully posted bond for appearance in court and will be arraigned next week.

Jesus and True Worship

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:3-6; Deut. 4:15-19, 8:11-14, 18-20; Isaiah 40:18-26, 30-31; Mark 12:28-34; Luke 4:8, 16-27; John 4:7-24.



The Lord said: "Take ye therefore good heed unto yourselves . . . lest ye corrupt yourselves, and make you a graven image of any beast that is on the earth . . . and worship them."

"When thy herds and flocks multiply, and thy silver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou hast is multiplied, then perchance thou wilt forget the Lord thy God."

"Remember the Lord thy God: For it is He that giveth thee power to get wealth . . . and if thou do forget and walk after other gods and serve them, ye shall surely perish."

Talking to the Samaritan woman at the well, Jesus told her, "The hour cometh when the true worshiper shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth."
MEMORY VERSE—Luke 4:8.

SHORTAGE SHORTCUTS

Mrs. Al Krempel Sends Her Recipe for "Spice Crumb Cake."

Two passes to the Madison theater will be sent to Mrs. Al Krempel, Mansfield, R. D. 4, for her recipe printed in the Shortage Shortcut column this week.

When writing of her recipe for "Spice Crumb Cake" she says, "Here is a recipe which satisfies the sweet tooth. It is a spice crumb cake which conserves sugar as it requires no icing and is eggless. This is one of my mother's recipes that she created during the depression to balance the budget and it has been a favorite with us ever since. Besides sugar and eggs it is a wonderful timesaver."

Spice Crumb Cake.

2 cups flour
½ cup shortening
1 cup granulated or brown sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. cloves

Combine all the above ingredients and rub to crumbs with your hands. Take out ½ cup for the top. Then add:

2 tsp. baking powder which has been mixed with 1 cup sweet milk (or) 1 tsp. soda mixed with 1 cup sour milk.

Beat well, pour into small greased loaf pan, and sprinkle top with crumbs. Bake at 375 degrees for about 35 minutes.

Raisins or nuts may be added if desired.

Send your recipes into the Shortage Shortcut contest.

The rules for the contest are:

1. Be sure and state the item which is saved or eliminated by using your recipe, such as fats, sugar, white flour, or meat.
2. Recipes must be signed with names and address so that we can give credit where it is due.
3. Send along with your recipe a short history of how you discovered it or if it was one your grandmother used.
4. No recipes which have been taken from newspapers, or magazines will be accepted.
5. If you wish to have your picture printed with your contribution attach a glossy print to your entry.
6. Address entries to Saturday's page for women, Mansfield News-Journal.

Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

In discarding on the declarer's long-suit tricks, it is natural to throw away apparently useless cards and hold on to those which are more likely to become trick takers. There is one kind of situation, however, in which it is advisable to divest yourself of some honor in order to hold a little card. That is when you see the declarer trying to build up a throw-in play against you holding a little card then may enable you to let your partner win the throw-in trick and then lead through the very tenace which the declarer expected you to lead up to.

West made his natural lead of the diamond Q, which knocked out the K at both tables of the team game in which this deal was played At both tables the declarer then counted up seven more tricks—in the two major suits—and decided to try for a throw-in play to get the additional one which was needed. Both declarers played exactly the same, running four spades and then three hearts.

Up to that point everything was exactly the same at the two tables, excepting for one discard, by West. On the fourth spade both put the heart 4, both followed suit with the heart 7 and on the second heart each discarded the diamond 2 But on the third heart the discards were different. One West put the diamond 6 on that eighth trick, retaining the diamond A-J and club A-Q-J. South then threw West in with the diamond 9. West got two tricks in that suit, but had to give South the game trick with the club K

At the other table, West discarded the club J on the eighth trick, so he could hold the diamond A-J-6 and the club A-Q. When South next led the diamond 9, West played the 6, enabling East to win with the 10. The club 9 return enabled West to take two club tricks followed by two diamond, setting the contract.

Your Weekend Question.

What is the earliest trick on which a squeeze play is possible? Can you set up a hand to demonstrate how the play can work that early in the game?

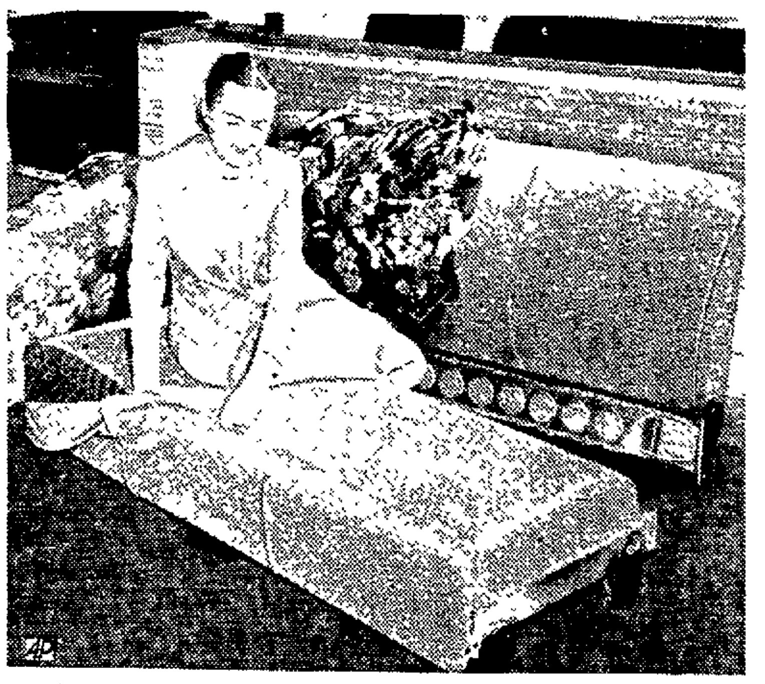
Aluminum Furniture Steals Show



Zip goes the cover . . . Mrs. Richard Thrasher of Jamestown, Ohio, changes coverings of a new aluminum frame davenport, disassembled for lightning change.

Jamestown N. Y. Market Displays Removable Upholstery.

By ALICE PARTRIDGE

JAMESTOWN, N. Y.—The hit of the Jamestown furniture market this spring was a display of all-aluminum frame living room sets with removable zippered upholstery.

The aluminum "bodies" of the chairs and sofas were inspired by airplane manufacture. In fact, they roll off assembly lines at an Akron, Ohio, aircraft plant, along which not so long ago traveled parts of navy Corsairs and blimps.

The frames are 40 percent lighter than the wooden variety. They have quick-release airplane fasteners which make the back, arms and seat detachable, allowing for "knock-down" shipment and easy movement through small house spaces.

"The frame is strong and rigid," said J. A. Reymann, the manufacturer, "and will never warp or rot. Neither moisture nor extreme heat affects it. Even termites pass it up. Despite its unique skeleton, however, it has the appearance of conventional upholstered furniture."

Over the aluminum bases a new type of non-webbed suspension spring is fitted which the company maintains will "last a lifetime and never sag." Over the springs goes a padding of foam rubber or cotton felt, and covers that zip off from each section to allow for cleaning or a complete seasonal upholstery change.

The covers differ from slipcovers in that they have the appearance of permanently fastened fabrics.

Reymann said the company has sets of upholstery in a variety of colors and patterns all cut to fit the different models.

Metal frame of chair is demonstrated by its manufacturer, J. A. Reymann.

Some of the living room sets are decorated with plastic molding which also is removable. It snaps on.

Reymann declares that actual tests have proved an inexperienced person can dissect a davenport, zip off the upholstery, whisk on a new set, and reassemble the piece in 15 minutes. Well . . . could be, if your talents run along those lines.

Obviously, the lumber shortage which is holding down production of conventional furniture does not plague this company Reymann said the new furniture will be in full production by Aug. 15 He expects to turn out from 35,000 to 40,000 sets annually thereafter.

Mid-July finds local merchants clearing their racks of summer clothes and gradually putting in new fall stock. But merchants warn that fall clothes are not going to be too plentiful again this year

A shipment of new gabardine suits has been received by one store. Made in dressmaker style with new shoulders, they are really beautiful suits in the shades of brown, powderblue, and winter white. Gabardine is still a fairly scarce material and may not be available after the first of the season. They are priced from $40 to $50.

* * *

Fall shoe styles show that high-heeled sandals and sling-back pumps in brown, black, or navy blue are going to be especially popular. Several styles have arrived at one shoe store and cost under $7.

And of courss when a purse matches your shoes, it gives a smarter look to your outfit. Several stores are having sales on their black plastic patent handbags to go with your new shoes. Priced under $4.

Cordette purses, costing between $5 and $8, are also good-looking Whether you like one large or small, in blue, brown or black, you should be able to find one to suit your taste at one store.

Novelty checked seersuckers for late summer wear can still be purchased and cost under $8. These dresses, which would be ideal for week-end wear in August, come in brown, red, green, and blue with contrasting belt.

A clever new lace dickey will add variety to the suit you've been wearing. In yellow or pink with black ribbon trimming on the round neckline, these dickies are cute and comfortable for this time of year. Priced under $3.

* * *

For wear now or in the fall a black sheer dress will be a good addition to your wardrobe. Trimmed in white lace or in sheer black net, these cost under $13.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, July 21.

Sunday's horoscope holds auguries of a difficult, perplexing and intriguing state of affairs, in which there are many conflicts and contradictions While there may be an outstanding prospect for the rewards of sound effort and well-organized attempts to solidify and secure the future and its progress, yet it is also probable that the energies and physical vitality may not be equal to putting over cherished plans and projects. Change, new tactics, renewed vitality, work wonders.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year in which a decisive and concentrated marshalling of the forces, talents and techniques may bring about a dynamic prod to lagging, static or congested conditions.

Lagging energies, devitalized state of mind, nerves, and body, might be at root of defeat. Change, adventure, innovations or diversions, might compensate.

A child born on this day will be talented, inclined to diligent and constructive work to make advancement, but may be frustrated by false factors or a debilitated physical condition.

Newspaper Readers Wrong In Guesses

PITTSBURGH —(UP)— Readers of newspapers are inaccurate estimators of the space devoted to various features in the daily newspapers, according to a University of Pittsburgh poll. Journalism students at Pitt asked 250 men and women in 50 occupations to estimate the percentage of space devoted to sports, crime and scandal news, and comic strips in the daily paper.

The average guess of all persons polled against the actual measurements were: sports, estimated at 9.3 per cent of total newspaper space, but actually 4.5 per cent; crime and scandal, 19.25 per cent against 2.75 actually; and comics, 9.25 per cent against 3.75 per cent Twenty-four Pittsburgh newspapers were surveyed.

Shorten the side growth on grape vines and keep the soil about the vines well cultivated. Tying paper bags over the clusters of fruit will protect them from the birds.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

From just a spring a river flows,
So wisdom out of knowledge grows.

—Old Mother Nature

He was young, this son of Reddy Fox who had started out to make a place for himself in the Great World, and he had much, oh so much, to learn. Some few things his mother and father had taught him, but most of the things he must know if he would gain the wisdom without which no Fox may hope to live long he must learn through experience. He was learning. Yes, sir, he was learning. Each day he learned something, often more than one thing, to be tucked away in his memory for future use in time of need. Thus was he sowing the seeds of wisdom, for wisdom grows from the seed of knowledge as the sprouting acorn grows to be the great oak tree.

The stupid do not learn. So they never attain wisdom, and among the Green Forest and Green Meadow folk they never live long. There was nothing stupid about this young son of Reddy Fox. Twice he had met Mrs Grouse and twice she had taught him a lesson. The first time she had led him a foolish chase by pretending to be badly hurt but managing to keep just out of his reach. Thus she had led him away from where her babies were hidden. The second time she had made him turn tail and run away by unexpectedly dashing into his face, a fighting fury pounding him with stout wings, scratching his face, pecking him about the head with a bill that hurt, and so confusing him that he just had to turn tail and run.

Thus she had led him away from where her babies were hidden.

He was thinking of this now as he sat in the Crooked Little Path near its beginning at the edge of the Green Forest He was trying to make up his mind whether to go home to the Old Pasture or stay in the Green Forest.

"I wonder what she did it for I wasn't doing anything to her. In fact I didn't even see her," said he to himself as somewhat unhappily he thought it over. Then in a flash the truth came to him. "I was close to those hidden babies of hers and didn't know it and she drove me away before I could find it out!" he exclaimed. "I'll go straight back there and this time I will be ready for her. She won't drive me away again."

He trotted along the Crooked Little Path to the first turn. He stopped. "Don't be silly," said he. He was talking to himself. That Grouse and her babies are not there now. They have gone by this time and I haven't the least idea where to look for them I'll go back on the Green Meadows and hunt for those I know where to look for and can catch. Grasshoppers and Mice are just as good eating as little birds I guess."

It was two weeks before he visited the Green Forest again He had had good hunting in the Old Pasture and on the Green Meadows. Now he was back in the Green Forest just for a change. It was pleasantly cool there among the trees He wasn't thinking of Mrs. Grouse and her little ones. For the time being he had quite forgotten them. Then he came upon them suddenly. They were no less surprised than was he.

Those Grouse chicks had grown My, how they had grown! Instantly the young Fox wanted one of them Would Mrs Grouse try to lead him away? He wouldn't follow her. Would she fly at him a fury? He was ready for her. She did neither. She gave a sharp command. The ten young Grouse started to run in ten different directions. The young Fox kept his eyes on the nearest one and sprang after it. Just as he thought he was going to close his teeth on that running chick it was no longer there just in front of his black nose. It was in the air. Those small wings had grown fast.

The young flier was lost to sight behind some trees so that the young Fox could not see just where it ended the flight. Excitedly he ran about this way and that way. Twice young Grouse took to their wings from almost under his nose, making him more excited than ever. At last, disappointed and out of sorts, he gave up. He sat down to rest.

It was very still there. After a while his sharp ears caught the sound of a cluck made faint by distance. Mrs. Grouse was calling her family together. Abruptly he started back the way he had come.

"Hunting for those birds is a waste of time," he decided. "I will try to always be ready to catch one if the chance comes, but I will waste no more time hunting for them. I'll hunt for those I know I have a chance to catch."

Out of the knowledge from experience the young Fox had gained the beginning of wisdom.

The next story: "The Old Briar-patch."

Right and Wrong Way to Water Lawn

By DEAN HALLIDAY

There is nothing that adds more beauty and charm to the grounds of a home than a lawn that is a carpet of emerald green.

A good lawn, however, entails maintenance such as regular mowing, occasional topdressing, feeding, rolling, weeding, disease and pest control, and watering during dry periods.

Good intentions coupled with faulty watering have been the cause of more lawn failures than any of the other many mistakes that are made in maintenance, especially during midsummer.

The right way and the wrong way to water a lawn—and the results—are illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Frequent and light sprinkling is harmful to a lawn. If you sprinkle a lawn every night, but superficially, as many people do it causes the roots of the grass to grow upwards because the top inch or two of the ground is kept moist while the strata directly beneath remains dry. When grass roots remain close to the soil surface they easily burn out during periods of heat and drought.

A thorough soaking of 3 inches or better still, 4 to 6 inches in depth once a week during dry weather will provide enough moisture. A good soaking at regular intervals will cause the roots to grow downward and prevent the grass from burning out.

If you do not have a sprinkler attachment lay the hose across a board placed flat on the ground and let the water wash across the lawn. If you do have a sprinkler, divide the lawn area into sections and place the sprinkler in the center of each section, letting the water flow for 20 to 30 minutes once a week, or in very dry weather twice a week.

Cut down lupine and pyrethrum foliage. The latter will bloom again in August. Pick off dead flower heads from Canterbury bells and a crop of side buds will soon come out.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1946

Drive carefully tomorrow—especially if you are on the North Main street road.

Oddity in the news: A Detroit tenant asked his landlord to raise his rent—the landlord refused.

The price of butter is really no higher—it merely seems higher because you pay it out of your pocket instead of in the form of taxes.

Mansfield Becomes Aviation Center

MANSFIELD has become so accustomed to appearing prominently and creditably in the national spotlight that today's centering of aviation interest on this city may not be recognized by some residents of the community as having a highly important bearing on Mansfield's future history.

Formal dedication of the new airport, extending through today and tomorrow, marks the actual starting place of another era of progress such as Mansfield has entered from time to time in this past—each evidencing the same forward-looking attitude that has been shown during the years of promoting, planning and developing facilities suited to full participation in modern aerial transport.

Mansfield's new airport, as it now is—and as future improvements will make it—is the realization of a dream that was in the minds of only a few people in this community more than twenty years ago, and it was through their initiative and enthusiastic support that the city's first small airport came into existence about fifteen years ago as the nucleus of the present $2,000,000 port.

The one central figure, the man who has provided the "know how" as well as the inspiration in connection with Mansfield's progress in the field of aviation, is J. R. (Bud) Harrington, who has stuck to the airport project through thick and thin, and without whose wise counsel, directing genius and steadfast determination it may be doubted if all of the many obstacles to such a huge project could have been overcome.

It is difficult to immediately appraise the benefits that will come to Mansfield as a result of providing these conveniently located facilities for air transportation, and as was said by the spokesman for the Civil Aeronautics Administration in presenting the port to the city: "The economic effect of your airport on Mansfield as well as the surrounding area, can and should be great, but it will be only proportionate to the development of the project."

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, in accepting the airport for the city, concluded by saying: "I know that the spirit of Mansfield, which has brought the city thus far in its history so creditably, will meet successfully the new challenge our airport puts before us and that succeeding pages in the story of our city will contain a brilliant chapter as an aviation leader."

The attractively illustrated program covering events of the two days of dedication and sky show, also contains the historical background of the project, and provides what will later become a treasured souvenir of this memorable occasion.

Test of Interest In County Fair

WHETHER or not the Richland county fair should be revived, revitalized and modernized, or be permitted to pass from existence as an outmoded institution, is being presented for public consideration by the fair board, members of which appear to realize that "new blood" and greater show of interest is necessary to the success of any future program.

Seriously, it may be wondered if the original purposes of a county fair might not now be better served in some more modern way, without loss of the advantages gained by competitive display of agricultural products and the opportunity given for interchange of ideas.

There is the thought, too, that if county fairs are to be continued, grounds and buildings devoted to that purpose might be turned to some useful purpose during a considerable part of each year, rather than confined to the single week of a fair.

With few exceptions, residents of Mansfield have shown little interest in the county fair in recent years, although this is a project in which combined rural and urban interest and support is necessary to success.

Outcome of the announced campaign to gain increased support of the county fair should prove enlightening as to whether revival and improvement is justified.

The Bureau of Census says the population of the United States is now 140,000,000—which indicates a more rapid gain in population than in facilities to provide for the comfortable living of that many people.

With atomic energy likely to have a curative value, the suggestion is offered that some of those atom bombs might be kept "for medicinal use only."

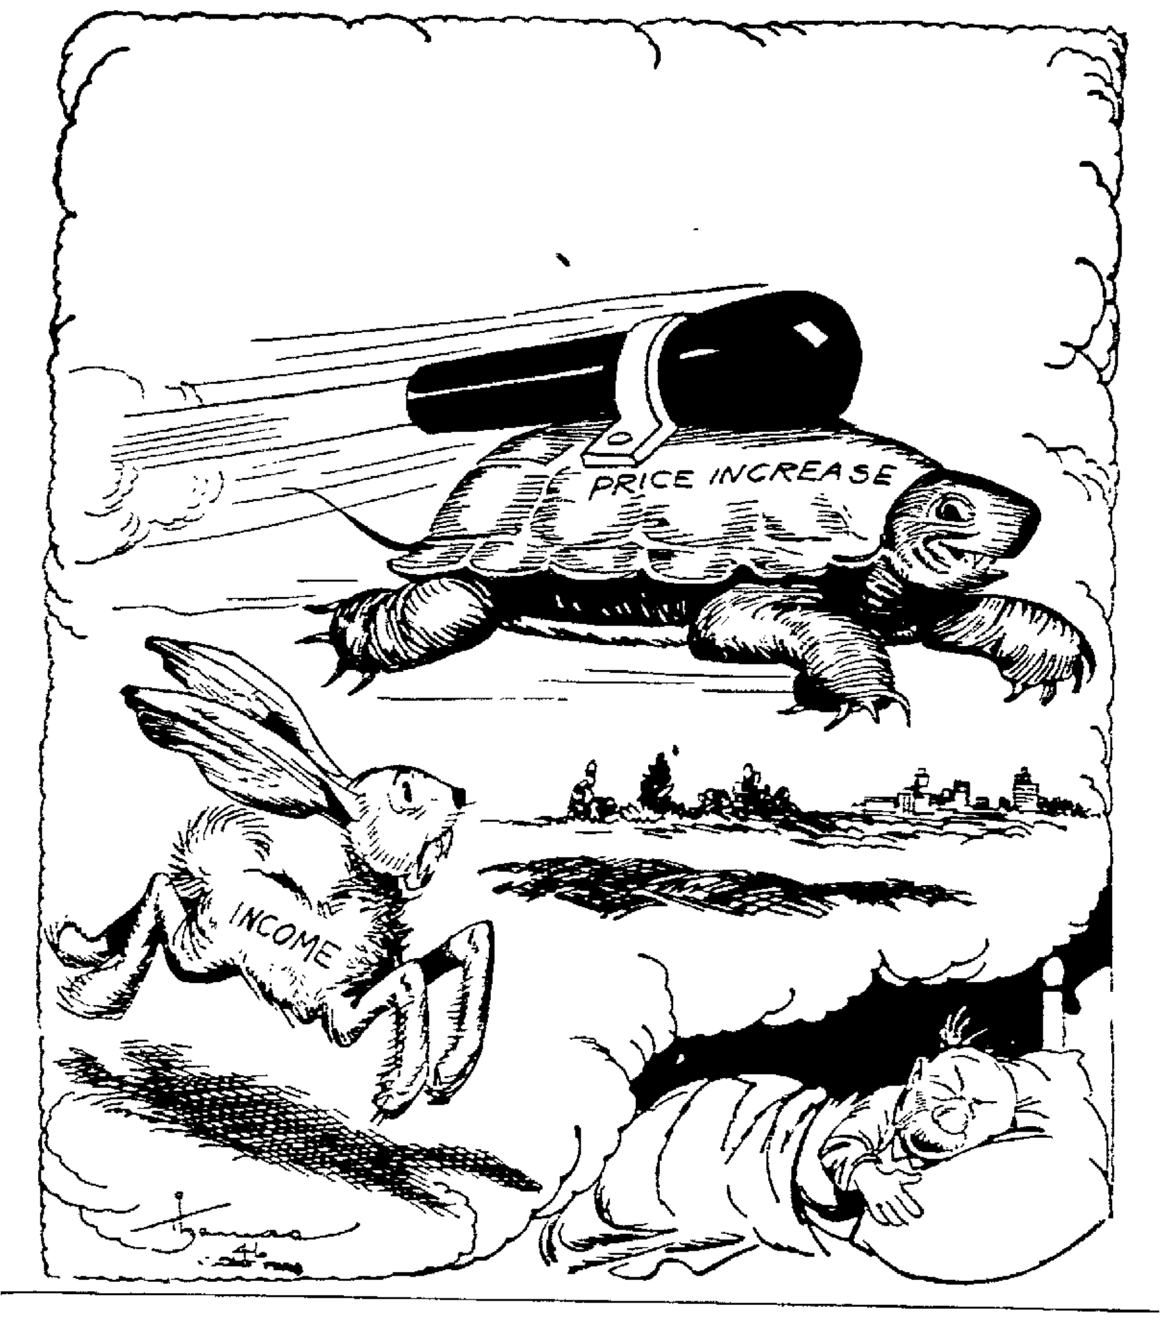
THE CONSUMER'S NIGHTMARE



Agreements Brighten Prospects

By RAYMOND MOLEY

IT IS ONLY by comparing the recent speeches of Secretary Byrnes and Senator Vandenberg with those made after former meetings of the foreign ministers that we can have a measured optimism about what happened in Paris.

Problems were settled there which looked exceedingly grim two months ago. In a slow, inexorable manner Mr. Byrnes is contracting the area of difference between the Soviet Union and the Western nations.

The American secretary of state deserves the nice things said of him by Mr. Vandenberg. Mr. Byrnes' performance was, Mr. Vandenberg said, "in the finest American tradition."

The eternal chattering of Pravda makes it hard to realize that there are so many issues upon which agreement was reached with Russia.

The gruff manner of Molotov and other Soviet statesmen makes even agreement seem disagreeable. But a good stretch of the long road to peace has been covered.

It was not believed, two months ago, that a general peace conference could be agreed upon. But it has been set for this month. There are limitations upon this conference, such as the Soviet proviso that the council of foreign ministers shall have the last word after the conference is over. This reflects the Soviet fear that, since Russia and its friends are minority, they would be completely trimmed in a general conference.

Peace has been made with five ex-enemy states: Italy, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria and Finland. That once seemed remote.

The Soviet withdrew its claims to Italian colonies. That lessens the fear of large Russian influence in the Mediterranean.

Germany will probably be recreated as a political and economic unit. Two months ago, people who returned from Germany said it was almost sure to be split at the Elbe river.

The final form of the new Germany will not be known for a long time, and many stiff decisions have to be made. But the principle has been agreed upon.

Trieste has been internationalized, which was the only peaceful solution. This was done despite the screams of both Italian and Slavic partisans.

The demands by Russia for reparations from Italy were compromised. The Soviet's justification for this demand was that Mussolini's soldiers participated in the attack on Russia. Reparations are to be paid, but over a period of seven years and with a moratorium for two years.

In and between the lines of Mr. Vandenberg's speech is no small ground for optimism. He does not charge that the Soviet government is intent upon a career of conquest, either ideological or territorial. He points out that the trouble is misunderstanding, rather than a clash of power.

And he believes that there is "common ground" where democracy and communism can meet and that we must not draw back from the quest for understanding into a new isolation.

It was not possible to say this of Hitler and the Nazi government.

The forthcoming peace conference will be long and, in many respects, disturbing. But Mr. Byrnes is showing himself to be capable of seeing it through.

Farmer's Diary: "Free Entertainment."

I LIKE to sit in our old car along the city street and wait for my wife. Most always, the people who pass by are enough of entertainment . . . and what they reveal of their own characters is sometimes humorous, or even poignant.

From more than a hundred who passed me today, a few stand out in memory . . . I will never forget them. There was a mother with four young children, three boys and a girl. All were neatly dressed, and not accustomed to the town. The boys ranged from eight to three, the girl about ten, was tall and slender like her mother.

The littlest son held to his mother's hand and his young mind seemed never to be present where his body was. For mother to make ordinary progress, she must drag him along at times. The sister walked between the other two brothers—intent on teaching them not to be too curious—not to point at things, or stumble over curbing while craning after a passing airplane.

How strange, I thought, that this mother and daughter should wish to train out of these boys the very impulses that would make them wiser and more useful. Natural curiosity is a precious thing—a healthy outward sign of normal growth. Why be ashamed to point out things that interest us? (Some of us do—in spite of boring conventions.)

A TALL erect broad-shouldered colored man in workman's clothes with dinnerpail. He was no older than 35, yet the lines of hidden sorrow on that plain black face seemed greater than he could bear. I was moved with pity . . . his naked loneliness spoke louder than any word of human utterance. Great depths of human feeling were expressed, intensely and accurately.

* * *

A BENEVOLENT, middle-aged man in clothes of fine quality stood looking up at the signboard of a church, then went inside. His poise, his firm step, his clear blue eyes and wide mouth made me know him for one who lived in an atmosphere of good will and happiness.

AND LAST, a sooty workman—old threadbare coveralls, stooped shoulders, graying hair. He tucked his metal pail under one arm and fished in his pocket for a coin as he entered a flower shop.

Presently he came out with a lovely geranium partially concealed by a cellophane envelope . . . and looking down upon it, he carried it toward his home with a warm light upon his tired face.

To know your neighbors, only sit quietly and watch them pass.

Buyers' Strike Gains Momentum As Commodity Prices Go Higher

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

TWENTY-SIX years ago labor, veterans and civic groups staged a series of buyers' strikes across the nation when commodity prices soared after World War I. Bank clerks and office workers marched in "overalls parades," refused to buy conventional clothes. People in many cities formed old clothes clubs and brides were wed in gingham gowns. This week even before the final die was cast in the congressional-White House dispute over OPA, a better-organized labor and militant consumer councils marshalled forces for similar demonstrations.

The CIO United Auto Workers called 800,000 members off their jobs for anti-inflation rallies which Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, declared would "herald a buyers' strike such as this country has never known."

Reuther proposed a nationwide week-long meat buying strike as the opening gun in a campaign to drive prices back into line. Meat would be only the union's first target, Reuther said, adding that rent probably would be next.

Reuther also appealed to farmers not to ship livestock to market during the seven-day period.

The New England American Veterans' Committee staged a Boston Tea Party in which bales representing inflated goods were dumped into the harbor where patriots once dumped tea. Old South Meeting House was hung with signs: "1773, No Taxation without Representation! 1946, Save Nation from Inflation!"

Quotes

Rep. Dewey Short of Missouri assails Senate McMahon atomic energy bill on ground it doesn't safeguard atom bomb secrecy: "You propose to hand your enemy the pistol with which to shoot you."

Winston Churchill: "I hope Germany will resume her place in the circle of Europe in the form of separate states so that not one of them will be strong enough to menace the safety of peace."

Women Plan Boycott.

In Utah, representatives of 50,000 organized women opened a drive for members' pledges to boycott all goods over OPA ceiling prices, except in unusual instances. Utah AFL, CIO and the State Consumers Council asked members to limit purchases to necessities.

In Denver, the Colorado Anti-Inflation Council called a buyers' strike for July 23.

A California congressman introduced a bill designed to facilitate buyers' strikes by authorizing a federal agency to prepare weekly reports on price changes as a guide to consumers.

The Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics reported prices of 28 basic commodities had risen 33 per cent in 11 months, of which 24.3 per cent came since July 1.

The price spiral was watched anxiously abroad by governments which feared American inflation might wreak havoc with world currencies.

Moscow radio commented that every day that passed with prices uncontrolled augmented the menace of inflation and hampered reinstatement of controls in the future.

Britain, accorded the $3,750,000,000 U. S. loan, will use part of it to import added foodstuffs and consumer goods to ease austerity rations. Hugh Dalton, chancellor of the exchequer, refused to be drawn into a commons debate over how much the value of the loan had been decreased by American inflation.

"Calculations on the subject," he said, "vary according to the calculator and according to the day of the week."

Loan Spur to Trade.

President Truman in signing the British loan said the measure served this country's "immediate and long-range interests" by speeding the return of world wide trade and ending rival economic blocs.

The British chancellor borrowed a phrase from Winston Churchill when he said "the loan must be for us not a sofa but a springboard."

"We cannot relax our efforts in production, especially in export trades," he continued. "The value of the loan is that it gives us a breathing space and new strength to accomplish our task. For this we sincerely thank the United States."

At Home

Tribute to Bombers.

While military scientists concentrate on new weapons for a possible next war, strategists are still arguing over which branch of the service—sea, air or land—did most to win the last war. Into this argumentative cauldron, the U. S. Strategic Bombing Commission has dropped a charge.

Defeat of Japan, said the commission, was due primarily to air attack, the atom bomb, Russia's entry into the war and the threat of invasion were useful but not vital in bringing about surrender.

The commission was appointed by President Roosevelt to assay aerial bombing of Germany. With a staff of 1,150 civilians and service personnel, it undertook the Japanese study last September at President Truman's request.

Delinquent Parents.

Two American cities, spurred by results in San Francisco, are enrolling parents of juvenile delinquents in guidance classes. The San Francisco program is based on the theory that parents are directly responsible for the mental and moral habits of the children.

Dearborn, Mich., and Topeka, Kas., adopted similar programs and numerous other cities are considering it.

The San Francisco center for instruction of "delinquent parents" concentrates on parent-child relationships, personality development of children, public health, recreational and welfare activities.

Enrollment in most cases is not considered punishment and parents must attend eight weekly classes held Monday nights. Absences are recorded and must be made up before parents are "graduated" and cases of their children returned to juvenile court for final review and dismissal.

A survey showed that 88 per cent of the children made successful adjustments at home and in their school and social life.

Nuclear Fission Party.

The second Bikini test scheduled for July 24 will be much different from the first.

Exploding under water, the atomic bomb is expected to hurl from 5 to 15 million tons of water into a column half a mile wide and 8,000 to 10,000 feet high. Radioactive spray rising to 20,000 feet may be absorbed by clouds and fall as rain, contaminating large areas. For this reason Eniwetok Island, 170 miles west, is being evacuated.

The target fleet will be set up to receive maximum and minimum damage. The blast may dig a submarine crater into the lagoon's coral floor and ship damage may result as much from 100-foot waves as from the tremendous force transmitted through the water.

Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy said the bomb will be exploded at 8:30 a. m. Thursday Bikini time (4:30 p. m. Wednesday, Eastern Standard Time).

Abroad

New Policy for Reich.

The historic Potsdam agreement to which Russia often points was cited by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes as justification of an American demand for economic unification of conquered Germany.

Enacting a policy as blunt and forthright as any stemming from the Kremlin, Washington laid before the Russians a choice between cooperation or economic paralysis in the Reich. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, U. S. military commander in Frankfurt, was directed to cooperate with any or all of the other occupying powers.

Byrnes and his two congressional advisers back from the Paris Big Four meeting (Sen. Arthur Vandenberg and Sen. Tom Connally) disclosed that no agreement had been reached on economic measures, guaranties for keeping Germany disarmed or drafting a peace treaty for Austria. They pinned the blame on Russia.

Palestine Dispute.

The Big Four council of foreign ministers was not the only peace parley torn by dispute.

In London, British and American experts talked long about the Palestine situation with no indication that immediate admission of 100,000 Jewish refugees from Europe would result. The talks might run three to four weeks, it was believed, perhaps culminating in conferences between U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

There was a news blackout at Britain's request but indications were Britain would keep insisting that entry of the 100,000 Jews could not be considered separately from nine other recommendations of the Anglo-American committee report.

Epidemic Proportions.

Tuberculosis and venereal diseases have reached epidemic proportions in Europe, reports Dr. Ernest L. Stebbins, American public health authority, after a two-months' tour of 11 continental countries.

Dr. Stebbins says conditions are worst in Poland with the tuberculosis mortality rate four to five times greater than before the war.

"Only increased hospital care can level off the (tuberculosis) mortality rate," he warned.

He visited France, Switzerland, Germany, Poland, Austria, Italy, Greece, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Belgium.

In Short

Closed: The White House, to the public until Oct. 1 for repairs.

Shot: Nine Poles for instigating July 4 pogrom in Kielce which killed 41 persons.

Killed: Child spectator at a Barranquilla, Colombia, bullfight when a bull shook off and sent into the grandstand a matador's sword plunged into the back.

Swapped: By the Red Army in Germany, a missing American warrant officer and his wife for three Soviet espionage suspects held by U. S. occupation authorities.

Sentenced: By an American military court at Dachau, 43 veteran SS troops to death, for the slaughter of 900 American soldiers and Belgian civilians during the Battle of the Bulge.

Marquis Childs

Wheeler Victim of "Potomac Fever."

WASHINGTON — He was once a fierce crusader for what he believed to be the right. He visited the Soviet Union in the early '20s and was denounced as a dangerous radical because he had the audacity actually to look at this proscribed experiment. He ran for vice president in 1924, with fighting Bob LaFollette in the No. 1 place on the Progressives' national ticket.

Today Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana is a defeated candidate who talks nobly, if somewhat pathetically, about "principle." He talked a great deal during his campaign about the "smear" that was being aimed at him.

Maybe it was a deliberate and skillful "smear." But if it was, Sen. Wheeler should have recognized it, for in the past he has shown himself a master of the smear technique. In the critical months before the war, Wheeler first used the shocker about "ploughing under every fourth American boy."

It was this kind of demagoguery that Wheeler stooped to in his attacks on Roosevelt's foreign policy.

Recent investigation by the department of justice shows that many phrases such as "ploughing under every fourth American boy" originated in Germany with Nazi phrase-makers who studied ways and means of needling them into the American consciousness. While Wheeler's isolationism needed no buttressing from any foreign source, the fact that he used these phrases encouraged the Nazis to believe their divide-and-rule tactics would succeed.

One factor in Wheeler's downfall has been overlooked by those who are writing the post-mortems. That is the fact that he suffered from a malady which President Truman, in private conversation, calls "Potomac fever."

Potomac fever is a complicated disease with many symptoms. But perhaps its chief characteristic is an illusion of power and statesmanship fostered by a comfortable, padded existence in Washington. The longer most men stay in Washington, the more likely they are to succumb to what might be called the marble-hall illusion.

The victim tends to identify the sound of his own voice with the infallible voice of the people. He becomes more and more reluctant to leave the marble halls for dear old Podunk. As a senator with seniority and important committee chairmanships, he can find a host of flatterers and sycophants ready to assure him that his slightest words are wisdom to be set down on tablets of stone.

A whole generation has grown up in Montana since Wheeler came to Washington twenty-four years ago. The senator's trips back home were increasingly infrequent.

More often than not, he went to a mountain retreat in Glacier National park, where constituents with annoying claims and complaints were few and far between.

He had become a fixture in Washington. One son is established in a successful law practice, with important corporation clients. The senator has become an ornament of Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean's drawing room and other such fancy gatherings. It's a long, long way from the McLean drawing room to a miner's shack in Butte, Mont., and sometimes even a man who once knew Butte will forget how great the distance is.

Some have thought it strange that Truman should have endorsed Wheeler. That act fitted perfectly into the president's code, in which loyalty to friends who have been helpful in the past is the first tenet.

Walter Lippmann

Russia Making Strong Appeal to Germans.

MR. BYRNES' German policy consists, thus far, of an offer and a demand. He has offered to give an American guaranty to keep Germany disarmed for 25 or even 40 years. This offer, as Mr. Byrnes said, has been received by the Russians with "aloofness, coolness and hostility," and he might well have added, as Senator Vandenberg did, that it "now seems to attract relatively little interest."

Mr. Byrnes also had a demand: He wants to restore trade across the four military zones in order that the British and American zones, which are not self-supporting, will not have to have their necessary imports subsidized. M. Molotov rebuffed this demand.

Only if we fail or if we refuse to understand the Soviet German policy, which M. Molotov announced on July 10, is there any mystery about all this.

In that momentous declaration, the most significant event since the armistice, M. Molotov made it plain — at least to the Germans and to the rest of Europe—that the Kremlin has decided to make a unified Germany rather than the little nations of eastern Europe, the main pivot of Soviet policy.

Plan German Revival.

That explains the aloofness, coolness and hostility to the American guarantee. The Russians have decided that Germany cannot be kept in impotence for 25 years, that Germany is certain to revive and to become fairly soon again the strongest power on the continent, and that if the Soviets do not win the new Germany as their partner, they will find the new Germany their enemy.

They could hardly make a stronger appeal to the militant nationalists of Germany than to oppose Mr. Byrnes' plan for keeping Germany impotent, to denounce all western plans for decentralization and "dismemberment," to abandon the French openly, and tacitly to open the way to another partition of Poland. M. Molotov is interested in rallying the Germans, not in emasculating Germany.

As for the economic deficits in the British and American zones, why should M. Molotov be interested in helping the American taxpayer, or the British taxpayer? Economic trouble in their zones will only draw the attention of the Germans to the fact that there is no unemployment and no food shortage in the Soviet zone. If the American taxpayers object to subsidizing the American zone directly, and the British zone indirectly through the new British loan, what can they do about it? Withdraw from Germany? The ultimate objective of M. Molotov's policy is to make Russia, to the exclusion of France, Britain and America, the power with which the Germans have to come to terms.

U. S. Has Lost Ground.

In order to deal with this formidable Russian move, Byrnes will have to develop a real alternative. Though he can, I believe, still form a genuine German policy, he does not have one now, and by failing to fix his attention seriously on Germany during this last year, he has lost ground that it will be difficult to regain.

To say this is not hindsight.

There has been plenty of warning that Mr. Byrnes had no time to lose in exerting his power and his influence to lay the foundations of a federal Germany in the three western zones, and to induce the British and French to reconsider their differences over the Ruhr.

For to a Germany already three-quarters reorganized for federation in its constitutional structure, it would have been very much less easy than it now is for M. Molotov to make his bid to the German nationalists. Then the decentralization of Germany would have been an accomplished fact, supported not only by the western allies but by the vested interests of an increasing number of Germans in the separate German states.

The reasons why this policy was not carried out, though we will have been saying we believed in it, are important now only as they still paralyze our conduct of German affairs.

The over-all reason is that Mr. Byrnes was diverted from the German problem by the Russians who wanted to cash in on their conquests in eastern Europe and by the British who were deeply perturbed by their vulnerability in the Middle East.

Our German policy has in its fundamentals been stalemated by two conflicting ideas: One was the original American notion, inherently fallacious and absurd, that Germany could be rendered safe by disabling her economically; the other was the contemporary version of the traditional British postwar policy that the defeated nation can be used to restore the balance of power against the strongest victor.

There are many Britons who do not believe in this policy. But to deny that it has been operative in British postwar dealings with Germany is either deception or self-deception. Mr. Churchill's Fulton speech, which though it was not official was no mere private utterance, would be gibberish if it did not carry with it the inevitable implication that western Germany is a military bastion against Russia, which did not take into account the German war potential, would be a silly proposal.

Mr. Churchill is one of the greatest of living military strategists, and he could not have forgotten Germany. That is what every informed European knows, that certainly is what Stalin and the Kremlin knows. The Molotov declaration announces the Soviet intention to get hold of Germany before anyone else gets hold of Germany.

Penalty of Weakness.

It may be that this has always been the underlying Russian policy. There is some considerable evidence, including M. Molotov's own personal record, that it was always a possible policy, always the real alternative to co-operation with the West. But what is certain is that the scales would have been tipped decidedly in favor of this policy once the Russians had seen signs that the British, with the Americans following, were even toying with the idea of controlling Germany to use her against Russia.

It has been a disastrous mistake by the British and the Americans to accept in any form whatsoever the idea of contesting the control of Germany.

All other reasons aside, it was a disastrous mistake because they can never hope to win the contest. As M. Molotov has now made so plain, he can outbid us on every vital point that interests the militant Germans.

All this unfortunate history will have somehow to be washed away, and replaced by a widely conceived plan of German reconstruction, before Mr. Byrnes can hope to negotiate with M., Molotov on the future Germany.

For as things stand now, what Mr. Byrnes offers is not really relevant to the actualities, what he is asking for he probably cannot get, nor would it solve the problem if he got it.

M. Molotov, on the other hand, has placed himself in the position where every strong German nationalist, and that means most Germans, must look first to Moscow.

More than $100,000 in jewels (square cut diamonds, emeralds and rubies) are owned by a former Ziegfeld Follies beauty. Her name is Georgia Frederick. . . . The widow of Capt. Frederick Clay USN. . . . The grandson of Henry Clay, who would Rather Be Right Than President. . . . The gems (including a six-karat canary diamond) were given to Clay in 1817 and handed down to the lovely widow who inherited the Clay estate. . . . "I'll bet you are proud to own those gems," someone said. . . . "No," she replied. "All that matters is the $250 J. J. Shubert promised me as soon as I fix the second act of my new play. The title is 'You, You and You'."

Incidentally, no direct descendant of Henry Clay was ever named after him. . . . There is a General Lucius D. Clay and there are La Frederick's three sons, Donald, Everett and Herbert. So the former Follies dolly (a Northerner) is insisting the next boy born be named Henry Clay or else. . . . Or else no dough. . . . Donald Clay, the oldest lad (now in Macon, Ga.), and his wife expect an heir in September.

Broadwayites know the bigger heart the easier target. The same cynical philosophy seems to apply to the international jungle. . . . The British came hat-in-hand for a loan. And America gave Britain the largest credit ever granted one nation. . . . So what happens? Some British gazettes are attacking the loan, and others accepted the moola grudgingly, saying the "United States made a business deal instead of helping out a deserving friend" . . . Uncle Sam can't win. If he had refused to grant the loan, he would have been called a Scrooge. And after he gives the money, he is called a Shylock. . . . It recalls an old political maxim: "Every favor makes a dozen enemies and one ingrate."

Sudden Thawt: We hope the British loan included thirty pieces of silver for Bevin.

Bernard Baruch, on his Central Park bench, evolved the plan for atomic power that he believes may make the entire world safe.

Now if only Mr. Baruch can evolve something to make Central Park safe.

The record proves Gerald L. K. Smith's support is a kiss of death. After a candidate for Congress in Wis. (Lawrence H. Smith) was "endorsed" by Gerald, he informed reporters. "I'm in the position of the fellow who got smallpox. I didn't want it but I got it."

The Sovvy propaganda falsifiers are now using the technique perfected by Goebbels. When an American newspaperman tells the truth about them—they reply an orgy of lies and name-calling sprees. . . . It reminds us of a Goebbels tale that was popular during the war: Goebbels, after all, did get to Heaven. One day while walking around up there he came to a huge telescope pointing downwards through a rift in the clouds. The sign said: "See Hell. Only five cents". . . . When Goebbels looked through the telescope he saw luxuries, wine, women and song—all that he had been craving for in the respectability of Heaven. . . . So Joe got a transfer and descended. On his arrival below he was tortured with fire and pitchforks. When he asked his torturers about what he had seen through the telescope all Hell roared with laughter. . . . "Oh," they ha-ha'd. "that's just propaganda for foreign consumption!"

ORCHIDS FOR HER—

On the plane carrying the shipment of gardenias to Mansfield today, there was included a select corsage of three choice hybrid orchids sent from the California governor's wife, Mrs. Earl Warren, to Mrs. Frank Lausche, wife of Ohio's governor. Harold Amling, owner of Amling's Inc., in San Francisco, called Kafer's flower shop late yesterday afternoon to say that the plane was being loaded at that time and asking that the corsage be accepted with compliments from one governor to the other. Amling said the corsage was to be delivered by his public relations man who was accompanying the shipment of flowers.

MANSFIELDER FACING TRIAL

Kentuckian, Arrested Here, Also Linked to Girl's 'Delinquency Tour.'

Aug. 1 was the joint trial date set in Lorain juvenile court yesterday for Mansfielder, Robert McDaniel, 345 Springmill street and Howard Escue, St. Matthews, Ky., charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Lorain high school girl.

The defendants, both 23 years of age, denied guilt yesterday in the Lorain county jail where they are being held pending the trial. According to the girl's testimony, the youths held her against her will during a four-day tour of Ohio cities.

McDaniel was apprehended by Lorain police July 11. Police reported they found several knives and a .38 calibre pistol in the Mansfielder's car. Escue was arrested by Mansfield police the same day at the Southern Hotel.

McDaniel, who is on parole from the Mansfield reformatory for carrying concealed weapons, is married and the father of a two-year-old son. Escue is on parole from the federal court in Louisville, Ky., on charges of impersonating a federal officer.

Juvenile Judge H. H. Nye of Lorain will hear the case.

COMPETITION
is the only price control that works!

Freedom of action is the keystone of competition — and competition is what makes prices come down.

Competition is a law of life and no economic experimenters have ever been able to write a better one. It has filled our homes with radios, refrigerators and devices for eliminating drudgery and also filled our roads with automobiles.

Production Costs Have Gone Up

Due to inflation—caused by the reduction in the purchasing power of our money—most manufacturing costs have risen substantially since the war. The petroleum industry furnishes no exception to this trend.

The cost of discovery and development of crude oil is approximately 50% greater now than during the pre-war period of 1935-1939. Refinery labor costs are 56% higher; costs of plants and equipment up two-thirds; cost of operating tanker fleets up over 50%.

Gasoline Prices Practically at Pre-War Level

In spite of these higher costs, the petroleum industry, through technological developments, has been able not only to improve the quality of its products, but has, at the same time, held down prices.

Astonishing as it may seem, you are buying gasoline today for practically the same price you paid before the war, exclusive of tax.

The Consumer Gets the Benefit

These results have been possible only because the petroleum industry has been America's most highly competitive industry. Sun Oil Company competes with hundreds of other companies for the gasoline business of American motorists. The result is a never-ending battle to produce better products at lower prices—a battle in which the consuming public is always the greatest winner.

Our Low Price Policy

Sun Oil Company welcomes competition, challenges any other company to produce a product as good as Sunoco Dynafuel to sell at a lower price. Unless blocked by economic factors beyond our control, such as the unsound monetary and fiscal policies which menace this country with inflation, Sun Oil Company will continue its endeavor to make even better products than those we are now marketing, and to sell them at even lower prices.

At least once every day and sometimes more often than that, this writer gets a call from men and women seeking information about the Ohio State football season.

Many of them want to know the home schedule and the prices of tickets.

There will likely be more interest in the grid doings of the Bucks come this fall than for several years—or back in the days of Johnny Hallabrin.

Here's the home sked:
Sept. 28—Missouri.
Oct. 19—Purdue.
Oct. 26—Minnesota.
Nov. 9—Pittsburgh.
Nov. 23—Michigan.

Games away from here are: Oct. 5—University of Southern California; Oct. 12—Wisconsin; Nov. 2—Northwestern; Nov. 16—Illinois.

Reason will be the presence of two former Mansfield high stars on Coach Paul Bixler's squad—Bill Doolittle and Dave Templeton.

As was mentioned in this column yesterday all only single game tickets will be on sale for each game come this fall.

Because of the ticket boom, Ohio State officials have reserved every seat in the huge horseshoe. Heretofore, thousands of general admission ticket holders had to arrive plenty early to be sure of getting a seat.

Advanced sale of season books went on sale only Monday of this week, and before the week was more than half over the books were all gone.

Two American legion junior baseball teams which have gained the right to compete in the state legion tourney at Delaware are the always-strong Bentley Post of Cincinnati and Delphos which won the Lima district . . . Mansfield's team will be after a spot in the state meet today and tomorrow at Norwalk.

The annual mid-summer meeting of the League of Ohio Sportsmen will be held Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 3 and 4 at George "Red" Trautman's summer camp six-miles south of Jackson, Ohio.

Events scheduled include trap shooting, bait and fly casting, archery contest, outdoor feed and a night fox chase.

A story yesterday carried over one of the wire services stated that Lou Boudreau, manager of the Cleveland Indians, will return to the University of Illinois as a coach.

From a story in Champaign News-Gazette, the story said that "Boudreau might be back this fall to assist coach Doug Mills and Wally Roettger whip the Illini basketball team into shape for the 1046-47 season."

The article also termed Boudreau's present status at Cleveland "shaky" under the Indians' new ownership and it said that Lou is not the type to stay in baseball until he is thrown out.

* * *

Close friends of Boudreau have pointed out that his ankles—reportedly the weakest in baseball—would limit his playing to two or three more years at the most.

Seerey Slams Two Homers

WASHINGTON (AP) Fat Pat Seerey, who usually strikes out or hits the jackpot, is busting the fences with more consistency these days.

The portly [illegible] chaser was in and out of the Cleveland Indians' lineup last season but he finally has sold himself to Manager Lou Boudreau.

As Boudreau puts it: "He fans a lot but we can't afford to have a guy like that sitting on the bench."

The Philadelphia Athletics know what Boudreau means. Seerey parked two balls out of the park last night as the Tribe defeated the A's 6 to 1 for a sweep of the three-game series.

Seerey's first [illegible] a drive into the upper deck of the left field seats [illegible] with the bases [illegible] in the [illegible]. His second [illegible] of the [illegible] and was on a line completely over the left field roof. The two wallops boosted the portly Irishman's total for the season to 16.

The veteran Mel Harder was on the pitching end of the Indians' triumph, their fourth straight in the east, a feat which tied their [illegible] mark of the year.

CELERYVILLE NINE BEATS SHILOH

CELERYVILLE—The Celeryville baseball team won its fourth straight game and its fifth of the season against one loss Thursday night, defeating the Shiloh Lions, 12-6, at Shiloh.

Henry Wiess allowed the Lions only four hits while the winners were getting 14 off three Shiloh tossers.

Zediker Cards 35; Plenty Fire 38, 39.

You had to be good to win in the Twilight golf loop at Westbrook Country club last night.

Al Hager toured the back nine in two-under par figures, firing a 34 for Pebble Beach and keeping the team in the league-lead.

Gene Zediker of Cherry Hills banged out a 35 for second best.

Turning in 38's were Carl Wiseman, Dale Rose, Haley and Ward, while Linster, Salter, Wenger and Moorhead finished with 39's.

Publinks Play Starts Monday

DENVER—(INS)—Entries neared the 100 mark today as green tenders put the finishing touches on the Wellshire Municipal golf course preparatory to opening of the National Public Links tournament Monday.

The vanguard of a bulky field found the 18-hole layout in excellent shape, promising a fast field. Qualifying tests for the 64 match berths will run two days, Monday and Tuesday, with each man playing 18 holes a day.

Leading the qualifiers to tee off at an early hour Monday will be Lloyd Young of Minneapolis, H. A. Hale of Salt Lake City, and Ken Pious of Chicago.

Among the 192 par-busters entered for the marathon is Bill Welch, the defending champion from Spokane, Wash., who triumphed in 1941 to win the last public links title before the war.

Babe Again Favored

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (INS) Babe Didrikson Zaharias of Denver, defending champion and tournament favorite, will tee off today against Margaret Gunther of Memphis, Tenn., in the [illegible] final match of the Broadmoor invitational golf tournament for women.

The Babe holds the odds over the Tennessee woman champion, who bowed to Mrs. Zaharias a week ago in the Trans-Mississippi tournament in Denver.

The two shotmakers won entry into the payoff round by lopsided semi-final scores.

Mrs. Zaharias continued her par-trimming play by eliminating Elinor Jones of Albuquerque, 6 and 5. The Babe fired a four-under-par 33 on the outgoing nine and coasted the rest of the way.

Miss Gunther out-putted Mrs. [illegible] Blanton of Enid, Okla., to win 5 and 3.

Johnny Berardino Is a Poet at Heart—But When He's at The Plate—It's a Different Story for the Brown Star

By JAMES E. LAWSON

ST. LOUIS—If the St. Louis Browns make good their bid for first division in the American league race a lot of the credit will go to handsome Johnny Berardino, a poet at heart, but right now one of the hottest infielders in the majors.

Johnny is right up among the leaders with his potent bat and his work around second base where he teams up with temperamental Shortstop Vernon Stephens—a whiz when he's on his game—gives the Browns one of the best keystone combinations in the big time.

The Latin from Los Angeles always has been a capable performer in the field but the blossoming of his batting mark from its four-year average of .263 to a full blooming .300 plus has been one of the big factors in the Browns' scramble for a money berth in the American league.

Berardino, who has been above .300 practically all season and recently hit safely in 21 consecutive games, modestly attributes the big jump in his batting figure to just plain "breaks."

There may be a good deal in what Johnny says, because he has been marked as a pretty fair hitter ever since the day Scout Jack Fournier saw him perform two innings for the University of Southern California and signed him without further ado.

Berardino went to Johnstown in the Middle Atlantic league in 1937 and hit .334. Next year he was at San Antonio where he batted .309, clouted 13 homers and sent 69 runners across home plate.

BROWN BRAWN—John Berardino's fast fielding and .300 hitting has helped keep the Browns high up in standings. Winters, he writes poetry.

When he came to the Browns the following season, Scout Ray Cahill called him the outstanding product of the club's new farm system.

He was hitting .284 when he entered the service after 29 games of the 1942 season. He spent three and one-half years with the Army Air Force and the navy, averaging about 30 games per year with service teams. He received his discharge on Oct. 27, 1945, a week before the birth of his second daughter.

The 6-foot, 180-pounder, who bats and throws righthanded, makes his home in Los Angeles where he was born May 1, 1917.

* * *

"This is gonna kill you," he said with a wide grin in answer to a question about his off-season interests. "I write poetry. Have for years. Wrote my first poem when I was 13."

"That's what I do in the winter. A lot of research, you know. I'm studying the Cambridge poets—Byron, Spencer, Shelley and Keats. I'm vitally interested in them.

"My favorite poet? Byron."

But if you get the idea that Johnny is a softy, all you have to do is talk to some of the infielders and catchers around the American loop. Because Johnny is one of the most belligerent of the Browns.

He comes sliding into bases with his spikes high, and for this Catcher Mike Tresh of the Chicago White Sox once beat him on the head with the ball. Berardino got in a punch before they could stop him—and it cost him $50.

Get Wins In Club Loop

Post 72 and Moose lodge softball teams kept up their winning ways in the Club league last night.

The Legion nine won the easy way, getting a forfeit from the St. Peter's Alumni.

Moose, behind some lusty clubbing by Shafer who had two home runs, belted the Sons of Herman, 11-3, at Prospect. Fenner and Uhlich hit triples for the winners.

Hetler banged out a four-bagger for the Hermans.

University club, behind the four-hit hurling of Pfizenmayer, won from the AVC, 10-2, at Johns.

Chatlain led the winners with a home run and double while Pfizenmayer tripled and Bourns doubled. Turner rapped out a triple for the AVC.

Indianapolis Back In Lead In Red-Hot AA Title Chase

(By Associated Press)

Indianapolis was back in the lead in the fiery American association flag scramble today—with the aid of a two-run, eighth inning rally which bowled over Minneapolis last night while St. Paul and Louisville split a doubleheader.

The Tribe hopped into the top spot with a one-half game advantage over the Saints by licking the Millers 4-3 as Ed Turchin, Al Roberge, Sibby Sisti and Joe Bestudik each contributed a single in the eighth frame to account for two runs and clinch the victory.

The game—fifth straight win for Pitcher Earl Reid — was played under protest, however. Sisti hit a homer with one on in the first and Umpire Bob Austin after calling it a foul changed his decision after conferring with Umpire James Hayes. Minneapolis Manager Tom Sheehan lodged a protest.

The Louisville Colonels, in third place only 2½ games out of first, after trouncing the Saints 13 to 6 in the first game of a twin bill, lost the second, 7 to 2.

Scoring five runs in the last three innings while Ewald Pyle held Toledo to four spaced hits the entire game, Milwaukee beat the Mudhens 6-1 after the brood had won the first game 4 to 0.

Kansas City's doubleheader at Columbus was washed out.

Stranahan Harrison Take Lead

CHICAGO—(AP)—Only one pre-tourney favorite, muscular Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, Ohio, amateur, was in the driver's seat today as the $10,000 Chicago victory National Open golf meet moved into the second round at Arduous Medinah Country club.

Stranahan and Professional E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., exploded three-under-par 68's yesterday to leave defending Champion Byron Nelson and leading 1946 money-winner Ben Hogan gulping their dust in the 72-hole test.

While Stranahan, the 23-year old millionaire's son who won the Kansas City Invitational last weekend, and 36-year old Harrison, whose last major conquest was the 1945 St. Paul Open, were taking tricky Medinah apart, Nelson and Hogan floundered with 73 and 75 respectively.

* * *

Because Harrison faded in the recent Canadian Open after starting with 69-68, Simon-Pure Stranahan was favored to cause most embarrassment for some 55 professionals gunning for the Open's top swag of $2,000 in war bonds.

Today's 18-hole session will be followed by a 36-hole closing round tomorrow, with an 18-hole playoff scheduled Monday in event of a tie.

PLAY ALL-STARS

MT. GILEAD—The Mt. Gilead Independent baseball team, victorious in two out of four starts this year, will meet Buddy Walker's All-Stars of Columbus this Sunday at 2 p. m. at the local diamond. Walker is a ranking heavyweight boxer and his team is composed of former members of the famous New York Black Yankees and other colored stars.

NEW YORK —(UP)— Al Weill, manager of the welterweight Champion Marty Servo, scored a victory today when the New York boxing commission announced that Servo's title bout with Ray (Sugar) Robinson would be staged at Yankee stadium Sept. 6.

Springfield Ups Lead

(By Associated Press)

Rain Friday night caused postponement of one Ohio State league game and cut another to eight innings as Springfield increased its league lead by a full game and Lima came out of a five-game losing streak.

At Zanesville, Springfield's Ewen Brydon shut out the hometown Dodgers with six hits, winning 4-0. Springfield scored two runs in the ninth before a heavy downpour stopped the game.

Lima defeated Richmond 4-2 at Lima, piecing out six hits with nine bases on balls and leaving 13 runners stranded.

The Marion Cardinals scored a hometown 8-5 victory over Middletown's Reds, taking a four-run lead in the second inning and staying in front.

Loan to Back Girls Team

Announcement was made this morning that the Provident Loan company, backer of girls' softball here in 1940-41-42, will take over the sponsoring of the Mansfield Hardware team.

F. L. Daugherty will manage the club.

Tomorrow afternoon the Loans will travel to Painesville to meet the strong Arcades.

KNOX TO RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Va. —(AP)— Glenn Knox, All-Southern Conference football end at William and Mary in 1942, will coach the ends at the University of Richmond next autumn. Knox formerly was an assistant coach at William and Mary.

Chet Adams Signs With Both Rams, Browns—Fight Looms

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Tackle Chet Adams has just returned from one war to become the focal point of another.

It seems that the husky ex-serviceman has signed two contracts—one with the champion Los Angeles Rams of the National Football league and another with the Cleveland Browns of the new All America conference.

Owner Dan Reeves of the Rams, who operated out of Cleveland until last fall, says Adams will play for his club or else—and he's gone to court about it.

Reeves' attorneys filed suit in federal court here yesterday, seeking an injunction to prevent Adams from playing with the Browns. Owner Arthur B. Arthur B. McBride, Head Coach Paul Brown and Assistant Coach Bill Conkright of the Browns were named defendants.

The Rams contend Adams signed a contract on Oct. 3, 1945, to play with them the first season after his discharge from military service. The court petition states that Conkright, the Rams' assistant coach and player scout who later jumped to the Browns in the same capacity, signed Adams to the contract.

After that, the petition charges, agents of the Browns sought "by offers of more money and argument and persuasion" to get Adams to breach his contract with the Rams, which called for $425 a game.

Adams, who was a star at Ohio university three years, joined the Rams in 1939 and played with them four years before entering service in 1942.

Jones Charged Haynes Tried to 'Dust' Ted

Newhouser Wins 18th In Easy Style; Brooklyn In Tie With Cards.

By JACK HAND, AP Sports Writer.

Bill (Sinker Ball) Zuber, a luckless pitcher who couldn't get anybody out for the Yankees, is proving to be a $7,500 bargain find for the pennant-bound Boston Red Sox.

Picked up for the nominal waiver fee when New York cut him loose, the 31-year-oldster has earned three straight decisions for his benefactors and hasn't been beaten yet.

Joe McCarthy hung onto Zuber long after most of the fans had given up on him, spotting him here and there along the way against the right kind of opposition. Last year the Yanks couldn't get a run for him and he was shutout no fewer than seven times.

Three relief jobs for New York produced one loss and he hadn't worked in almost a month when Bill Dickey let him go in mid-June. His first Boston appearance was a gaudy three-hit shutout of Cleveland. Although he was batted out by the A's he came back to trim Cleveland in his third start and then added a four-hit, 9-2 decision over Chicago yesterday to his impressive record.

Even in victory, Zuber had to play second fiddle to Ted Williams when Umpire Red Jones evicted 14 White Sox players and coaches after he had warned Pitcher Joe Haynes about "dusting" Williams.

The Pale Hose resented the charge that Haynes was "throwing at" Thumping Teddy. A yammering from the bench resulted in Jones thumping out Ralph Hodgin, Dario Lodigiani, Ed Smith and Bing Miller. When the riding persisted, Jones cleaned out the dugout, shooing 10 more players and leaving only Manager Ted Lyons, Coach Mule Haas and a skeleton bullpen brigade.

Williams appeared to be the least excited person in the park, calmly brushing the dust off his uniform and then lining out a single. Ted's first hit, a double in the first inning, had started the Sox off to their easy triumph with the first two runs.

* * *

Boston's phenomenal Fenway park record against the western clubs now reads 28 won, 2 lost (both to Bobby Feller).

With the Yankees and St. Louis Browns unscheduled, the Red Sox upped their lead over second place New York to 11½ games.

Hal Newhouser chalked up his 18th victory in an unimpressive performance against Washington, 10-5, allowing 12 hits.

Hank Greenberg's tremendous triple with the bases loaded and Birdie Tebbets' two-run double helped the Tigers overcome a 5-0 Washington lead and go on to win. Mickey Vernon's four hits in five at bats enabled him to regain the batting lead from Williams.

Brooklyn came out of its disastrous slump long enough to down Cincinnati, 8-4, and go into a first place tie with the Cardinals who were washed out of their night tilt with the Phillies after three scoreless innings of a pitching duel between Johnny Beazley and Hugh Mulcahy.

Rookie Warren Spahn continued his impressive lefthanded work, dumping Chicago, 6-1, to give Boston its third straight western series.

Pittsburgh and New York were not scheduled.

Sandlot Nine Whips Galion

A sandlot junior baseball team pounded out a 19-9 win over Galion's juniors yesterday morning at Galion.

Hess and Tucker divided the hurling chores for the winners setting Galion down with seven safeties. Hess fanned four and Tucker six.

Enders and Seif were on the mound for the losers and allowed 18 hits.

Coach Jim Lymper used 18 players. McFadden led the club ble. Liblet had a triple and ble. Liblet had a ripple and Schmidt, Perrine, Tucker, Simpson and Hess each had doubles.

SAW PROJECT THROUGH MANY DIFFICULTIES

Citizens Cleared Way When Port Seemed Doomed to Failure.

While every Mansfielder has a share in the magnificent new airport which officially becomes city property today, a handful of men cleared the way for the big project and kept battling for it when the whole program appeared doomed.

Certainly topping the list of men responsible for the new port is J. R. "Bud" Harrington, pioneer in Mansfield aviation, who decided several years ago the city should have an adequate port and kept plugging for it until it's now a reality.

Besides his work in developing the airport site, Harrington carried the story of aviation to many Mansfield clubs and organizations, telling them what the city was missing by not having a port to handle "big time" air traffic.

Joining Harrington in the battle for a port were former Mayor W. J. Locke, the Chamber of Commerce, the Mansfield Amima club, and Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th district, who had a big role in the port program.

While Congressman McGregor isn't a Mansfielder, he went to bat for the city early in 1944 when the federal government almost abandoned the Mansfield project because it wasn't "essential to the nation's war program."

McGregor made trips to Mansfield to get details on the project and took the information to President Roosevelt who announced later that the project here would be continued.

Ex-Mayor Locke directed the city's part in the airport campaign, his mayor's office serving as a clearing house for the hundreds of details which had to be worked out.

Locke made trips to Washington and Chicago to take the city's story to the Civil Aeronautics authority which provided the major part of the funds for the project.

Figures Prominently.

Figuring prominently in the fight to prepare a site for the airport were Charles Conklin, Mansfield architect, and Attys. C. H. Huston and C. H. Henkel. As spokesmen for the Chamber of Commerce, they gave many hours to the port project and were largely responsible for having State Route 13 detoured around the port, leaving the site clear.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the C. of C., was an important link between that organization, the city and county, and the CAA when the port program was in the formation stage. He handled details in arranging meetings, wrote hundreds of letters, and did an important task in coordinating the efforts of the C. of C. committees and other groups.

When the county entered the picture, Howard C. Sword, then county engineer, put his forces to work building the detour road and the project was completed in record time.

A leader in city council's work in behalf of the port was Councilman Russell Porch who was made chairman of the council airport committee. Porch was also chairman of the finance committee, and finding enough money to buy the land for the project was one of his headaches.

Porch later resigned as chairman of the airport committee after taking a job with the Harrington Air Service, Inc.

County commissioners and city council provided funds to build the detour road to the west of the port which has been carrying traffic for two years.

One of the toughest jobs in preparing the site was handled by Neil Robinson, employed as the city's agent to deal with farmers for the land now covered by the big landing field. Robinson got the necessary acreage within a few weeks, leaving a minimum of ill feeling between the city and the land owners who were asked to give up their homes and farm land.

Robinson did the job so well that he was employed to negotiate for the land for the new Clear Fork reservoir, another big city project.

Alan P. Tappan, an aviator in World War I and a colonel in the war just ended, long has been known as one of Mansfield's most active workers for aviation in the city. Although he was in the armed forces at the time the project came to a head and could not take a part in making the port a reality, his work in the past without a doubt made itself felt in making Mansfield "air minded."

Although dozens of organizations in the city gave their backing to the port program, the Amima club was a pioneer in the movement. The club adopted the airport as its major project and was responsible for spreading information about it and helping the city to understand what the port would mean to its future growth.

These men and organizations and a lot of others in the city can take a bow today when the CAA presents the port to Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and a proud city.

Ohio Highway Deaths Climb Every Month Since V-J Day

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Highway traffic deaths in Ohio—for the 10th consecutive month since V-J day—increased last month by 12 per cent over a similar month last year.

The toll on the state's roads, outside municipalities, was 38, State Highway Director Perry T. Ford disclosed today.

Cumulative death figure for the rural state highway system in the first six months of 1946 is 283, an increase of 64 per cent over the 173 deaths reported during the same period last year.

Although the highway toll for 1946 is well above the 1945 figure, it still is considerably below the list in 1941, last year of driving unhampered by gasoline and tire shortages or rationing, Ford said.

"Miles of travel on rural state highways now are approximately the same as the last pre-war year, but 1946 traffic deaths still are 25 per cent under the death toll for a comparable period of 1941," the highway director declared.

Vehicle mileage this year is 60 per cent above the same period in 1945.

This comparison of accidents, deaths, and injuries among 1941, 1945 and 1946 was given by Ford:

1941 — Accidents 6,723; deaths 377; injuries 5,504. 1945—Accidents 3,331; deaths 173; injuries 2,600. 1946—Accidents 5,558; deaths 283; injuries 4,899.

Eighty-three deaths from non-collision accidents came during the first half of 1946, an increase of 118 per cent over the 38 during the first six months of 1945, while collision deaths numbered 93 this year as compared to 73 a year ago, an increase of 27 per cent.

GEORGE D. ANDREWS

First Lt. John W. Hammer, Mansfield Flying Fortress pilot of 50 missions over Italy, and at present public relations officer of the special events section at Wright Field, Dayton, is monitoring the dedication and sky show activities at the Mansfield airport. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Hammer, 256 Taylor road.

Accompanying him were S/Sgt. Helena K. Baker, also of the Wright Field public relations office, who will cover the show for the air material command at the field; Major Thomas Powell, chief of the special events section, who will be in charge of the public relations activities; and George D. Andrews, special events specialist, who will announce the sky shows held both days over the field.

Official photographer with the group is Arthur D'Eramo, who will take pictures for the air material office.

"The airport is a magnificent project for a city of this size," Andrews said after a tour of the field.

Both he and Powell were impressed with the extensive planning for the show. They said that they found the average citizen in Mansfield surprisingly well informed on details for the show.

CAPITOL FOR TOURISTS

BATON ROUGE, La.—(UP)—Louisiana's 34-story skyscraper capitol built in the days of Huey Long today stands as much a tourist center as a government building. Some 5,000 to 7,000 persons a month view the Mississippi river's stately bends from the capitol's observation tower, and the state even employs an official hostess to point out the sights.

AIR BUS FOR SHOPPING

ALBANY, Ga.—(UP)—A one-day round-trip shopping service to and from Atlanta, 230 miles away, is the newest feature of an enterprising flying service here. The flights leave here every morning with housewives and business men, make one stop for more passengers at Columbus, Ga., and arrive in Atlanta at mid-morning. The return flight reaches Albany at 7 p. m., after a return stop at Columbus.

Baird Directs Pageantry at Port Dedication Ceremonies

An expert in staging productions, J. Gilbert Baird, general chairman of the airport dedication committee, is largely responsible for the colorful pageant at the Municipal airport dedication ceremonies today.

For the past two months Baird and his committee have worked daily, planning each detail of the dedication and sky show.

It was largely through Baird's efforts that stunt pilots and army, navy, and marine airmen came to Mansfield to make the dedication the biggest show in city history.

As sales promotion manager for Westinghouse and an aviation enthusiast, Baird was ideally equipped to handle the dedication program.

At Westinghouse, he is responsible for all shows, exhibits and conventions of his branch of the company. In that same capacity, he has crossed the country by plane more times than he has counted, and is a member of the 100,000 mile club of the United Airlines.

Baird is well known by many of the leading figures in aviation and the show business—he supervises production of all motion pictures used by his company in sales promotion work and spends from three to six weeks a year in Hollywood.

J. GILBERT BAIRD

In directing the Mansfield airport dedication and sky show he was assisted by Alan P. Tappan, president, Tappan Stove company, a retired army colonel and an air force veteran of two world wars, as vice-chairman.

SEND FOOD

Metallurgists Ship Boxes to Hungry French.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Five thousand pounds of food are being shipped each month to French metallurgical engineers by members of the American Society for Metals.

E. E. Thum, editor of the ASM Journal, "Metal Progress," started the "food for France" project six months ago. Correspondence with friends in France impressed Thum of the food shortage resulting in his sending several boxes of food

The food problem was presented to the society and the response was immediate. The Societe Franaise de Metallurgie has assisted in the project by sending names of French metallurgists and production men to the ASM. "The food packages are filling a definite mental as well as physical need," Mr. Thum said and added that shipments will continue so long as the emergency exists.

STUDIES CORAL

Ohio Geologist Gets Samples From Bikini.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—While scientists and military authorities compile their data on atom bomb results, Geologist John H. Wells of Ohio university works on the opposite side of a "before and after" picture of bomb results.

Coral samples — two tons of them—have been shipped to Wells. Collected when a preparatory commission visited the Bikini atoll in March, the samples were shipped in 21 packing cases.

Wells has been asked to study these specimens and to report "exhaustively" on the islands characteristics before the A-bomb dropped. Other geologists are scheduled to visit the area and make a post-bombing report. This is not the first time that Wells, considered an outstanding authority on coral formations, has found specimens from the Pacific islands on his desk. In 1932 he made a study of coral from Jaluit island in the Marshall group. Those samples were reputedly collected by the emperor of Japan, himself.

Try and Stop Me

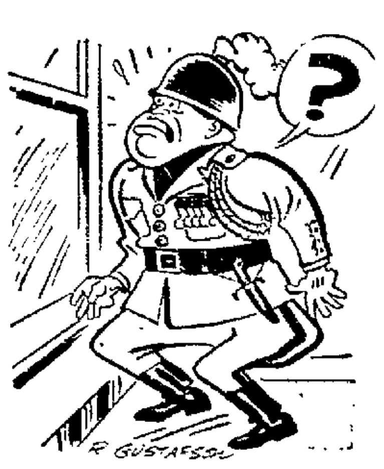
—By Bennet Cerf

When Benito Mussolini (remember him?) decided to go ahead with his invasion of Ethiopia, he selected his ten finest legions to spearhead the attack.

Each legion consisted of 10,000 men. All of them were drawn up in the great Plaza in Rome while the Duce exhorted them from his balcony.

"I know," he screamed, "that each one of my ten great divisions is going to fight for the honor of leading the attack In fairness to everybody, I have decided to leave it to fate."

He dramatically plucked a feather from his hat and threw it into the air. "Whichever man catches this feather," he announced, "will win for his division the glory of being the first to attack."



After this pronouncement, Mussolini went into his private office and waited for results. For a full hour nobdy came near him. Mussolini, greatly perplexed, sneaked a look from the balcony window to see what was happening The sight that met his gaze was 100,000 men, all puffing at the top of their lungs to keep the feather in the air.

A Two Million Dollar Salute to the Citizens of Mansfield!

That's the new 1200 acre airport being dedicated July 20-21

It's a salute to the civic enterprise and community spirit of the 42,000 citizens of Mansfield who are preparing to celebrate the opening of this giant airfield This new, modern air terminal on which construction started two years ago, will, when opened, make Mansfield an integral part of the nation's air map We at Hughes-Keenan share the righteous community pride in the progressiveness that has made this airport possible

We're proud of that progressive attitude We're proud to be a part of it The new airport is just one more evidence of Mansfield's far sighted thinking It's just another proof that Mansfield is a communityof doers—a community with its eye on the future

Organization Held $42,000 in Manila Prior to Jap Invasion.

NEW YORK—(UP)—The YMCA is nearing the end of a 16-month search for the 450 soldiers, sailors and marines who left their savings, $52,000 in all, with its branch in Manila before the Japanese invasion of the Philippines.

"We have to locate only 31 of the original 450 men who gave us their money for safekeeping," Charles T. Tidball, accounting executive, Army-Navy YMCA headquarters, said.

"We get letters daily from mothers or relatives of the boys," he said. "We have had claims from people who have no right to petition us. But we're slowly making contact with all entitled to the money."

How many of the original 450 who fought the Japanese in the Philippines are alive is not known, but the YMCA is prepared to turn the money over to them or their relatives if proper claims are presented.

The story of the deposits in the service men's exclusive "bank" began Jan. 2, 1942, when H. Ward Smith, executive secretary of the Manila YMCA, checked the sums on deposit as Japanese troops advanced on the city.

Saves Lists.

With the city already under siege, Smith put three typists to work copying the lists of depositors and the sums due each. Six copies were made on onionskin paper.

Smith gave one each to five trusted Filipinos and kept one list himself. When the Japanese took over, Smith was placed under house arrest, his office ransacked and the records burned. He still had his list.

Three days later Smith entered Santo Tomas prison camp. Still later he was shifted to the Los Banos camp, but the list was cleverly cached in a box of his personal belongings.

"My gear underwent repeated searches," Smith said later. "They stripped me of pictures, personal papers, even insurance policies, but they didn't find the list."

When the Americans entered Manila Feb. 23, 1945, Smith was released. Unable to find the five Filipinos who held the other lists, he contacted Tidball and the search for the 450 men or their next of kin began.

TAXIES IN AIRLINERS

DENVER—(UP)—Alice Minogue has 1,000 hours travel time in an airliner to her credit—but she's never been off the ground in a plane. Miss Minogue, chief telephone operator for Continental Air Lines at the Denver municipal airport, hitches a ride on the passenger planes moving from the airline's hangar up to the air terminal at least three times a week. The distance is one mile. She's been taking her lunch-time trips in the planes for three years.

Great Aerial Dreadnaught Visits Airport

Today, Mansfielders will be afforded closeups of the giant B-29 Superfortresses, a great dreadnaught which helped to write the closing chapters of the war against Japan. Equipped with four, 2,200 horsepower Wright engines, a wing span of 141 feet, three inches, and a length of 99 feet, the huge iron birds will be exhibited today and Sunday during the dedication and sky show ceremonies at the municipal airport.

MANSFIELD HAS DONE IT AGAIN

And Sears Is Doing It Again In Mansfield

With this latest and greatest innovation, the Mansfield Municipal Airport, the city of Mansfield is gifted with not only the symbol of a progressive future but an assurance that there will be better living for more people in the Mansfield area.

Sears, too, is growing with the city. The opening of our new modern store in the near future will priviledge us to contribute, more fully, our share to the advancement of the community.

To the Mansfield Municipal Airport, Sears extends a most hearty welcome and offers thanks in appreciation of the benefits forthcoming from this enterprise.

Planes Roar, Crowds Surge--Airport Big Day's Here

Dedication Climaxes 2 Years' Hard Work

Today's the day which all air-minded Mansfielders have been waiting for since July, 1944.

Climaxing two years of planning and construction—and plenty of plain hard work—the city's new, $2,000,000 airport will be dedicated this afternoon amid speeches and displays and the roar of planes and more planes.

Crowds ranging up to 50,000 are expected to jam the airport on both dedication days—today and tomorrow.

At 2 p. m. today Mayor Roy W. Vaughn will officially accept from Lane W. Wilcox of the Civil Aeronautics Authority the new, top-ranking field which will put Mansfield near the top of the aviation "heap."

Gov. Frank J. Lausche and representatives of the army, navy and marine corps will also take part in the formal dedication ceremony today.

Immediately following the ceremony the first commercial flight will take off from one of the new port's 5,600 foot paved runways and begin a non-stop flight to the west coast.

Then begins the great army-navy-marine sky show with scores of up-to-the-minute military planes roaring through intricate aerial maneuvers. Stunt fliers will take to the air, too, and there'll be a pageant of 1946 personal aircraft. In addition, numerous, most-modern commercial planes will be shown.

Tomorrow, from 11 a. m. through 5 p. m. the sky show will be repeated. On both days the port will open at 11 a. m. and close about 8 p. m.

Besides the flying demonstrations, there'll be dozens of planes displayed on the ground and a hangar-full of flying equipment exhibits.

Three famed stunt fliers account for 45 minutes, and a Navy blimp will make its appearance.

* * *

Dawn Patrol Coming.

The number of aircraft will be increased by at least 150 on Sunday, when the Ohio Dawn Patrol comes in. These are small private ships, arriving from all over Ohio for the second day of the show.

Another Saturday feature will be the arival Saturday morning of the "Stardust Gardenia" express, with 5,000 gardenias from San Francisco, while on Sunday the "Cherry Special" brings in 6,800 pounds of cherries from far-away Washington.

United Airlines will fly in a Mainliner on Sunday, and fly it out again Sunday afternoon. American Airlines will have an Airfreighter here, and TWA is bringing in a multi-engine ship.

Giant Ships Due.

Ground exhibits—both navy and army will have them, as well as private plane manufacturers and equipment makers—will be open from 11 a. m. to 8 p. m. on both days. Wright Field will display the B-19, world's largest operational aircraft, a B-29, a P-38, a twin-engine Mustang, a new fighting ship, and several other new models. The navy will display fighters, dive bombers and torpedo bombers.

Martial music for the dedication program and ceremony will be presented by the 36-piece Liberty Park band under the direction of veteran band-master, Frank Dekrell

These Are Men Who Helped Make Dedication a Success

Largely responsible for the success and smooth operation of the Municipal Airport dedication ceremonies and Sky Show is this group of prominent Mansfielders. For the past two months they have been working daily to make the two-day dedication the "biggest show" Mansfield has ever seen. Left to right are: J. G. Baird, general chairman; Capt. J. G. Foster, jr., USN; James LeMunyon, jr., military participation committee; James R. McConnell, military participation committee; and Alan Tappan, vice chairman.

Hal Boyle . . .

By RICHARD O'REGAN
(For Hal Boyle)

FRANKFURT —(AP)— Hitler's propaganda is still strong enough in postwar Germany to discredit the task the United States has shouldered in seeing that conquered Germans do not starve.

A U. S. military government report discloses that large numbers of Germans believe America is telling a plain, out-and-out lie when she says that the world food situation is critical.

The impression is spreading, says the report from the state of Wuerttemberg-Baden, that America intends to let the Germans starve to death. Germans repeat among themselves: "Hitler was right when he said other countries will let us starve if we lost the war."

This impression—which both the army and military government are trying to correct—is responsible for much of the bitterness toward America's occupation troops, the report says, adding that there is a widespread feeling that the United States easily could relieve the food shortages if she wanted to do so.

Germans, the report says, point to refuse cans full of waste from army kitchens and ask each other: "Why don't the Americans give the waste to our children?"

The anti-American attitude probably stems from the fact determined by an information control division survey that up to 72 percent of the population of some German cities is concerned chiefly with getting more food.

A series of scientific polls, conducted among 13,000 Germans in all age and salary brackets, shows that throughout the American zone an average of 38 percent of the population is worried more about food than anything else.

In food-short cities, the average is more than 50 percent with old people, who cannot get about to scavenge for scraps, complaining most.

The zonewide average, the survey says, climbed from 23 percent six months ago when German rations were higher. Worry over food, the polls show, has far outstripped other concerns—such as the shortages of housing, clothing and employment, anxiety over missing prisoners of war and the influx of refugees from eastern Europe.

An analysis of the survey says that the "steady, though small, decline in concern about housing and furnishing problems" was unexpected and that despite the tens of thousands of newly arriving refugees "satisfactory arrangements apparently have been worked out in many cases."

Here's History Of Municipal Airport

Dedication Ends Project Which Began In City Nearly a Quarter Century Ago.

Dedication of the Mansfield Municipal airport today ended a project which really began nearly a quarter century ago.

When Mansfielders today looked at the 11 buildings, the new Sky club, the runways and other developments which ran costs of the new port to $2,000,000, many were thinking back over the years when the site was farmers' fields and a municipal port was still a dream.

The city actually became interested in promoting an airport in 1925 when council purchased land for an airport just south of the new port.

Through small city appropriation, some WPA labor and donations by aviation-minded citizens, a total of something less than $50,000 was spent in grading, draining and improving the field.

But at the beginning, and for some years after, the voice of aviation was, figuratively, a small one in the wilderness.

However, in the late 30's and early 40's after the federal government set up the CAA and established funds for airport improvement, agitation for enlarging the Mansfield port was started.

Civic groups made surveys, city officials sought allocations, and early in 1943, Mansfield's chances of obtaining federal help in getting in step with the aviation parade became brighter.

It wasn't until July, 1944, that actual construction work began on the port itself. That was slightly more than a year after the first CAA grant of $600,000 for the project was announced.

The intervening time was spent in acquisition of the land by the city, the letting of contracts for the work, and the relocations of roads and the elimination of utility lines.

The Frank Mashuda company of Milwaukee, Wis., was awarded the general contracts for construction of the port. Changes in design and plan from time to time brought the total cost of the port from $600,000 to the $2,000,000 figure.

Three months ago, the CAA revised its construction program for the port to include night runway lighting and soon after the end of dedication ceremonies tomorrow, work will be started on a $75,000 runway illumination system of a type approved by the army and navy.

Plans for an administration building and other structures necessary to run the huge port are already underway.

RE-ELECT FAIR BOARD

BUCYRUS—Walter J. Michael, president of the Sozonian company, was re-elected president of the Crawford County Agricultural society, official name of the county fair board, in elections this week. Other officers re-elected were C. A. Songer, Tod township, vice president, Russell L. Miller, Bucyrus, secretary, and M. E. Crall, Bucyrus township, treasurer.

SEEK FLOODLIGHTS

BUCYRUS — Theft of some of the flood lights from the fairgrounds was being investigated by sheriff's officers today following a report of the stolen lights from the county commissioners.

Mansfield's New $2,000,000.00 Airport Provides Passenger Service, Shipments, By Air Everywhere

Just 15 Years Ago Mansfield Was Staging Another Airshow to Open the Old Airport

Just 15 years ago this week Mansfielders were witnessing another "air show."

But it was nothing like the extensive aerial display to be staged this afternoon and tomorrow to officially dedicate the city's new, $2,000,000 airport.

On July 24, 1931, planes from "as far west as Iowa" and "as far east as the Atlantic coast" were flying to Mansfield to participate in the city's first "air races."

It was a three-day affair. The corner stone of the first hanger at the city's old "corn field" port was to be laid during the "races" of '31 and some 40 to 50 planes and their pilots were to compete for $2,500 in cash prizes.

Fifteen years later—almost to the day—Mansfield is staging another air show. But this time there'll be some 250 planes participating and they'll come from ALL parts of the country.

And this time instead of a hanger corner stone it'll be an entire 1,200-acre airport that'll be "honored".

But the 1931 "show" had its feature points and in some ways sharply paralleled the 1946 "production."

Maj. James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle took part in the '31 races as planes roared through their paces at speeds "in excess of 170 miles an hour."

There was stunt flying and parachute jumps and glider contest at that early show. And from Columbus came the 112th Observation Squadron to show what the army had in the way of military aircraft.

The '46 show will be much the same—only bigger and better.

Today there'll be dozens of top-ranking military fliers on hand to help dedicate the new field. Planes will be flying "in excess of 400 miles an hour" and there'll be stunt fliers, too,—three of the nation's best.

And from army and navy bases throughout the country armed service planes will be showing off how they—as well as Mansfield—have moved forward in the air age in just 15 years.

Back in '31 red flags marked the way out North Main street to the city's tiny airport. Today and tomorrow that street will be a one-way thoroughfare for the car's of thousands of spectators to use to get the new field. The way will be marked with bright yellow "arrows".

On July 24th 15 years ago, an "aerial parade" of 20 planes was staged over the city. Sunday morning some 150 planes of the Ohio Dawn Patrol will circle the new field in a modern "aerial parade."

Mansfield's first air show was held at a time when new strides were being made in the field of aviation.

That first hangar corner stone was laid in the days of Post and Gatty and their nine day round-the-world flight; when the Lindberghs were preparing to make their "great circle" flight and at the time when the great dirigible "Akron" was nearing completion in the Rubber city.

Today Mansfield opens a gigantic new airport as planes climb nearer and nearer to the speed of sound; as mammouth new cargo planes are carrying hundreds of passengers and tons of freight thousands of miles non-stop and a round-the-world flight is a matter of hours unstead of days.

In just 15 years, Mansfield—with the world—has moved forward in aviation

Gets $53,820 In Auto Fees

A total of $53,820 from auto license fees had been received by Richland county and its nine municipalities from the state auditor's office today, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe reported.

Checks for the municipalities' shares are already in the mail, Wolfe said. The money is for use in maintaining and repairing streets and highways.

Sharing in the $53,820, which is the second distribution of auto license fees this year, are:

Richland county, $40,707; Bellville, $275; Butler, $125; Lexington, $150; Lucas, $125; Mansfield, $10,375; Plymouth, $212; Shelby, $1,700; Shiloh, $125; South Boulevards, $25.

Shelby Plant Sells Surplus

Lt. Col. S. H. Raymond, Commanding Officer, 831st AAF Specialized Depot, Shelby, Ohio, announces that invitations to bid on small lots of new, used, and reparable surplus property have been issued by the Contracting Officer at the 831st AAF Specialized Depot at Shelby, Ohio. The sale will be held on July 23, 1946 and bids will be received until that date. Inspection of material may be made at the above location Monday through Friday, 8:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m.

The following is a list of property for sale: Over 200 miscellaneous items: hardware, (screws, hoseclamps, valves, springs, cotter pins, pet cocks, hose, glass, etc.)—motor accessories (pressure gauges, generator carbon brushes, ignition cable, switches, valves, water pump packing, oil filters, etc.)—lumber (doors, plywood blocks, strips, 2"x4", etc.)- and many other miscellaneous items too numerous to mention.

Invitations to bid may be secured by contacting the Contracting Officer at the Shelby Depot

FAME IS FLEETING

SALEM, Ore—(UP)—Maj. Gen. Gilbert R. Cook, famous commander of the 12th Corps during the invasion of Europe, came back to his old stomping grounds, Camp Adair, only to be refused admission to the abandoned army center which he had commanded from the start of the war until 1943. An unidentified guard told the general that "No one could let him enter the camp."

For the World of Today

We share the enthusiasm of all Mansfield in the dedication of our modern airport.

Mansfield Aviation and Industrial Progress go Hand in Hand

In step with the development of Mansfield air facilities and service, Mansfield Brass and Aluminum Corporation has passed a milestone in its industrial progress.

Established in 1892 and incorporated in 1937 as the Mansfield Brass Foundry, Inc., increasing demands for quality products required the installation of the finest machines and equipment as well as expanded production space by Mansfield Brass and Aluminum Corporation.

Today, Mansfield Brass and Aluminum, with its modern precision machinery and production facilities, provides a much needed service to industry for producing aluminum castings in its New Washington, Ohio, plant and brass and bronze castings and finished close-tolerance machining in its Mansfield plant.

Products of many types, in large quantities, flow smoothly through the production lines of Mansfield Brass and Aluminum . . . pressure castings for pump manufacturers . . . diversified castings for transportation companies . . . castings of every description for industrial applications . . . bronze bearings and fittings, completely machined to customers' specifications . . . and the increasingly popular new Mansfield Micro-Seal curb and corporation stops for municipal and industrial water lines.

Mansfield Brass and Aluminum Corporation facilities are available to help you solve your most intricate casting and machining problems!

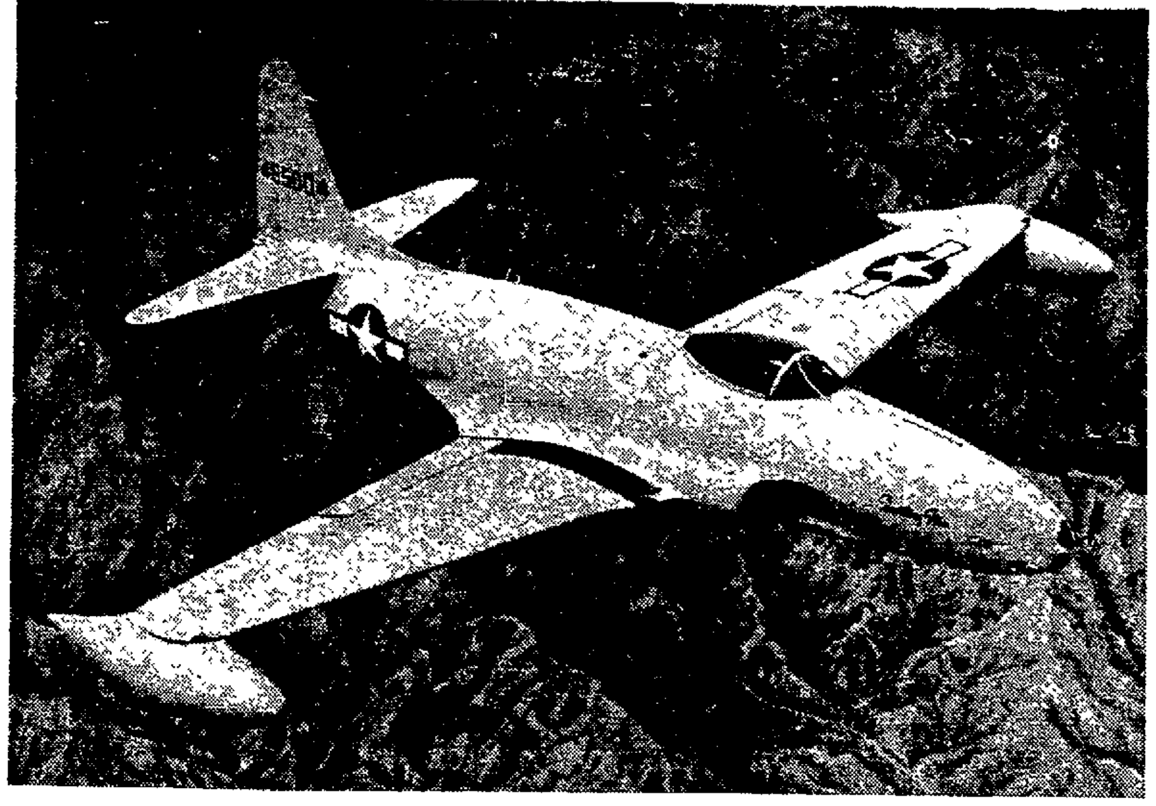
Jet Power Sends Shooting Star Scooting



Here's the most-talked of "hot" ship of the post-war period. It's the famous Lockheed P-80 Shooting Star which is revolutionizing the flying business. Capt. John W. McGuyrt, who learned his aviation ABC's at the Mansfield airport, is scheduled to fly one of these jets jobs here today.

Vet Pilots of Fighter Group To Take Part In Dedication

Four veteran combat pilots of the famed 362nd Fighter group, which helped spearhead the drive of the late General George Patton's 3rd army across France and Germany, left Biggs Field, Texas July 18 to participate in the Mansfield Civil Air Patrol demonstration, today and Sunday.

Led by Lt Col William T Yates, the pilots will put their speedy Mustang fighter planes through a series of "aerobatics" and simulated dive bombing and ground strafing attacks

One of General Patton's favorite air force units, the 362nd provided aerial cover for his hard-hitting 3rd army doughboys at the Battle of Brest, the Battle of the Bulge, and during the 3rd army's crossing of the Rhine river.

At Brest, the group, directed by ground radio, bombed and strafed holdout enemy forces so effectively that 7000 enemy troops surrendered. Col. Joseph L Laughlin, the present commanding officer, who also led in group overseas, skip-bombed and sank a German cruiser in Brest harbor, as part of the action which earned the group one of its two presidential unit citations.

In March, 1945, when the 3rd army crossed the Rhine, the 362nd destroyer 13 aircraft, 139 armored vehicles, 1950 railroad cars, and 158 locomotives and damaged other enemy vehicles

The present mission of the group is the tactical development of air power as used in support of army ground forces.

The armored catfish does not have ordinary scales, but, rather, overlapping armor plates. The fish, good scavengers, lay eggs in bubble-nests in plants at the surface of water.

VEGETARIANS BUY ISLAND

NEW ORLEANS —(UP)—Tired of the temptations of sizzling steaks, even in a meat-shortaged world, three New Orleans vegetarians have purchased their own island—and that's where they'll live Karl Speiser, Dr. F. P. Yeissgerber and Harold Clark bought the island of Morat in Honduras, and they've dubbed it "Utopia."

All three over 50 years of age, they will build homes out of island stone and live the life of naturalists, eating off the land as much as possible.

1,000-Acre Airport Handles Biggest Planes In Existence

Imagine an immense farm of 1,000 acres, complete with modern buildings and concrete "roads", and you will have a reasonable picture of the size and appearance of the new Mansfield Municipal airport.

Built jointly by the city and the Civil Aeronautics authority, the new airport is the highest airport in the state, with an altitude of 1,297 feet

The land was purchased by the city, while the runway systems and landing areas were constructed by the CAA Total cost of the airport is estimated at $2,000,000.

Two concrete runways are now completed and are 5,600 long and 150 feet wide, with 1 000-foot sodded safety strips at each end with overall totals running to 7,600 feet.

Designed to support 80,000 pound individual wheel load, the Mansfield Municipal airport is constructed to take care of the largest plane in existence today.

In addition to the concrete runways, there are two 7600 foot sodded runways, and a complete system of taxi strips and parking ramps.

The Mansfield airport is ideally situated in the heart of a rich industrial and agricultural district with an estimated area population of 190,000 The port is approximately equi-distant from Columbus, Massillon, Akron, Cleveland, and Toledo.

The port also boasts the "Sky Club", one of the finest restaurants in the Mansfield area Built at the cost of $125 000, it has a capacity of 350 and consists of two floors

REMPCO Bins and Cabinets Are Designed to Provide Maximum Storage of Every Type Part In Minimum Floor Areas

FOR YEARS the Renie Metal Products Corporation has been designing and tooling for a quality line of industrial cabinets and storage equipment, which combines dependable service, outstanding appearance, and maximum value . . .at the lowest possible cost.

The REMPCO Line is built by craftsmen utilizing the latest in modern precision equipment. Every corner, every angle, every part is finished with an accuracy which makes assembly and adjustment simple and easy. All holes are gang punched, assuring perfect alignment of cabinets, shelves and dividers. With REMPCO Redi-Fasteners bin spaces can be easily and quickly rearranged to fit any type part unit.

Standard units of the REMPCO Line are so flexible in their application that they will solve practically all storage problems. REMPCO facilities are easily adaptable too, and special cabinets, bins, and racks can be constructed on special order to your individual specifications.

The material used in REMPCO products is the finest obtainable and extra gauge metals assure strength and rigidity of all parts. High quality Olive Green enamel is the standard finish for REMPCO cabinets, bins and shelving. Other colors can however, be supplied on special order.
